Japan today vetoed league efforts to obtain direct participation of the United States in the league council's negotiations to settle the Sino-Japanese dispute in Manchuria.

While other members of the council at Geneva were drafting the invitation to Washington the Tokio foreign office made known its stand. At the same time Japan rejected the suggestion that a league commission inquire into the Manchurian dispute.

Meanwhile according to International News Service reports, fighting continued in Manchuria with Chinese troops retreating across the Liaho river southwest of Mukden, after sharp skirmishes with Japanese cavalry. Peiping hears Japanese intend to occupy the Peiping-Mukden railway from Mukden to the Great Wall.

Japan is withholding from publication two notes on the Manchurian crisis from Washington, fearing outbursts of anti-American opinion.

Frank J. Morgan, 814 West Grant street, will be feasting on steak and mushroom for a few days, as Wednesday he found a nice big one just inside the city line, on West State street. The mushroom is of the puff ball variety and weighed eight and a quarter pounds.

Traffic conditions have been bettered considerably downtown since the opening of the Washington street bridge.

Winter is apparently around the corner. Troop F's participants in the V. F. W. parade Saturday night will be dressed in woolen uniforms.

As well as being able to report news Pa Newc's family is supposed to be well versed on any question that might come up. This morning Pa Newc was consulted as to how to cold pack mushrooms; well, he couldn't tell the woman so he

(International News Service)

BATON ROUGE, La. Oct. 15—Further complicated by the advent of a third claimant to the governorship Louisiana's civil political war today approached an issue in the courts.

While Governor Huey P. Long continued in actual command of the state administration, his enemy, Lieutenant-governor Paul Cyr, prepared to enter the courts and assert his right to the governorship. Disclaiming any intention of forcibly seizing the reins of government, Cyr announced that his attorneys are getting ready to file suit within a few days demanding the dismissal of Governor Long.

Citizens Of First Ward Ask School In Ward

Present Petitions Before School Board At Meeting Last Evening

CLAIM PROPERTY VALUES DEPRESSED

Claim that property values have depressed through lack of a school building in the first ward, and that the children from this district must travel a long distance over streets heavily congested with traffic, a group of citizens from the first ward appeared before the school board at their meeting last evening and asked for relief from existing conditions.

A number of petitions were presented, which, the delegation stated, had been signed by a great majority of residents and taxpayers of the ward.

Mrs. C. C. Dickson appeared as spokesman for the group. She stated that they had never sent their son to the old first ward school building because she considered it unsafe, and while she had no children of school age at the present time, she was interested as a resident and taxpayer.

She stated that the first ward was the center of the city's cultural, social and business enterprises; that it stood fourth in property valuation and that at the present time was void of any schools.

She stated that west of Mercer street, in the first ward, there were 160 school children between the ages of six and 12 years; and that they must travel four-fifths of a mile outside their own school district to attend school. This travel is through streets heavily congested with traffic.

The question with the citizens of the ward, she stated, was "should they continue with conditions as they exist at present, or should they

Four Women And Eight Men Spend Night In Debate

Jury In Case Of Samuel Clark Against Magdalene Babiarz It Deadlocked

At noon today no agreement had been reached by a jury in the case of Samuel Clark, by his father, Elmo Clark, against Magdalene Babiarz, in which the plaintiff is asking $25,000 damages from defendant, on account of injuries received by the falling of a tree.

The case was given to the jury about 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The jury, composed of four women and eight men, spent all night in the jury room. This morning the jury was taken out for breakfast and again retired for a consideration of the case. It is seldom that a jury stays out so long on a civil action.

Samuel Clark was walking through an alley east of Pennsylvania avenue on his way home from school, when a dead tree on the Babiarz property was blown down by a high wind and fell on him. He was in the hospital for some time and it is claimed he is permanently crippled, having to use crutches to walk.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 15.—Heeding the advice of its president, William Green, who stated that the United States was not yet ripe for the dole system, the American Federation of Labor, today was on record as being opposed to unemployment insurance.

Instead the Federation recommended a seven-point program which they hoped would bring relief to the unemployed. The program follows:

1.—Immediate conference to be called by President Hoover to consider the unemployment crisis.

2.—Immediate inauguration of a five-day week in public and private industry.

3.—Maintenance of wage structure.

4.—Assurance of work.

5.—Prohibition of child labor.

6.—A comprehensive building program.

7.—Balanced production.

That labor would go on record for the legalizing of 2.75 per cent beer was the opinion expressed by most of the delegates as the convention was drawing to a close. It was understood that the resolutions committee would make this recommendation despite the fact that some delegates favored beer of stronger alcoholic content, while still others would like to have the eighteenth amendment repealed.

It was expected that the "beer question" would come before the convention late today.

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 15.—Complete breakdown of all relations between the Vatican and Spain was forecast here today as a result of the anti-religious articles being incorporated in the new Spanish constitution.

In an interview with International News Service, a Vatican spokesman declared the situation in Spain was so serious as to necessitate more drastic action than the lodging of a simple protest.

No Protest Lodged.

For this reason, the Vatican has taken no steps toward lodging a protest, and none will be presented, according to indications at the present time, until the situation has been studied in all its details.

A high Vatican official pointed out to International News Service that while the church did not thoroughly approve of the new Republican regime in Spain, it was ready and willing to accept formal separation of church and state, as provided for in one article of the new constitution.

This separation, it was said, would be acceptable to the Vatican on the same basis prevailing in the United States and the South American republics, whose authorities guarantee the church certain liberties, particularly regarding religious institutions, orders, convents and schools.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15.—A gigantic liquor ring reputed to have been backed by $5,000,000 with which it maintained a fleet of rum boats, radio stations, cutting and bottling plants, was smashed today.

With the arrest of more than a score of persons, and seizure of the "corporation's" headquarters and equipments, special government operatives after six months secret work believed the back of the largest bootleg outfit in the country had been broken "for good."

Vessels Are Seized

Five simultaneous raids were made. Two outlaw radio stations, a "Navy" of eight rumrunners, a fleet of trucks and much other paraphernalia, including lists of customers, were seized. At about the same time the alleged "mother ship" of the "Navy" was captured at Norfolk, Va., according to reports received by the raiding forces.

Thirty six warrants had been sworn out today, and more were to follow.

Socially and financially prominent men and women were listed as "customers" in the documents that were found at the ring's "headquarters."

J. Frank Hilton was accused by federal agents as the local operative head of the bootleggers. Bernard J. McNichols was said to have been in charge of retail sales, assisted by S. A. Wynings.

MUKDEN, Oct. 15.— Chinese troops were in full retreat today across the Liaho River after two sharp skirmishes with Japanese cavalry in which the combined casualties on both sides totaled more than a score.

In the first of these one Japanese was killed and two seriously wounded.

The second engagement, 15 miles northeast of Chuliuho Station, lasted two hours. Sixteen Chinese were killed in the fighting and an uncounted number of wounded carried off the field after the battle.

In one skirmish Japanese infantry rounted a Chinese force, killing five of its members and capturing Kuomintang national flags and banners.

Can Resume Travel

Late today the first expeditionary force sent out to clear Chinese "bandit troops" out of the zone through which the Japanese-owned railway runs started back towards Mukden, according to a communique issued at the Japanese headquarters there.

Officials of the Peiping-Mukden railway here have been notified that they can now safely resume service. There will be military inspection of all trains along the line, beginning at Chuliho, because of reported sniping by "plain clothes" soldiers filtering into mukden from the surrounding countryside.

Valuable Ring Is Sought In Court

Mrs. Dorothy Russell Calvit, Seeks Ring Worth $50,000 Once Owned By Lillian Russell

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The ghost of Lillian Russell danced into the somber supreme court this morning and gay scenes of life as it was lived in the early part of the century were recalled when Mrs. Enrico Caruso Ingram was examined before trial by counsel representing Mrs. Dorothy Russell Calvit, daughter of the beauty of by-gone days, who claims ownership of a $50,000 ring worn by Mrs. Ingram.

The ring holding an emerald as big as an acorn framed by nine diamonds was on display as evidence. Mrs. Calvit says that the ring was bought for her in 1900 and given to her by her mother. The emerald, she says, is her birth stone.

Mrs. Ingram says that ring was given to her by the late Alexander Moore, former ambassador to Spain, as an engagement ring. Lillian Russell left her whole estate to Moore.

The examination before trial today was for the purpose of identifying the ring. Mrs. Ingram, dressed in a black suit with hat to match entered court wearing the ring on her finger . Mrs. Calvit, dressed in a gray suit with beige fox, was also present.

There's a constant rehearsal program going on these days at the Senior high school, where the students of the city are shortly to present a benefit production called "An Autumn Revue." It will be given to raise funds out of which milk can be bought for needy school children.

At the post office, around the mailing stacks, all one could see on Tuesday and Wednesday were the state's new 1932 motor car registration application forms, enroute to car owners here. And there are no small number of cars.

Porch lights are burning at many residences these evenings, as a means of avoiding visits of pre-hallowe'en gangs of boys who are out committing minor depredations.

Fifteen or twenty business concerns of various kinds, along with a considerable number of apartment renters, will be obliged to find new quarters as a result of the purchase of the Diamond site for the new postoffice. The entire square between Washington, Jefferson, Market and Diamond streets is to be used for the post office, with the exception of the Clark property at the north western end of the plot.

If the citizens of the county respond as enthusiastically as they did last year, the food donation days coming Friday and Saturday of next week, will mean a lot to the Jameson Memorial hospital. Just a small donation from everyone—just a can or two of peaches, soup, jelly —that will make a fine winter supply for the hospital patients.

Pa Newc is inclined to believe that the suggestion made yesterday for enforcing of the curfew law in this city is a good one. There are too many juveniles running around the downtown streets after the curfew hour has arrived.

Motorists are appreciating the opening of the East Washington street bridge and a long line of cars are again traveling over that part of the city.

Young Pa Newc observed a car load of hunters from this city this morning driving toward New Wilmington.

SPECIAL SESSION OF LEGISLATURE TO START NOVEMBER 9

sembly in its extraordinary session. It was believed in most quarters that the outstanding recommendation to be made would be that Pennsylvania work out its own salvation through a "prosperity bond" issue to finance unemployment relief.

Gov. Gifford Pinchot and his plans are occupying the very apex of that heap. At the present time, however, mention of the executive's name and those plans all have to do with the extra session he is calling. Gossip of his personal aspirations, if any, in the national political arena has been switched to a siding temporarily while other topics affecting the body politic generally have been side-tracked altogether.

All signs indicate that subject matter of the session will be limited solely to ailing economics and a winter's cure or temporary alleviation of unemployment.

If Governor Pinchot expects to realize his hope of adjournment by Christmas, political leaders say, he may have to make that limitation an absolute edict. Letters of "whereas" and "be it resolved" that would keep the gavels pounding in legislative chambers beyond the advent of the new year have been finding their way to the executive sanctum with increasing rapidity in recent weeks.

Not the least important among these is a petition having to do with prohibition. This petition would have repeal of the drastic Snyder enforcement act come before the legislature. Another petition asks enactment of an election reform measure, aftermath to the heated Allegheny county fight. Taxes, too, would be arranged to suit everybody.

After that, the session would rate the term "extraordinary." One practical politician here made the dry observation that the alternative would be to lay all the petitions end to end—"and let them stay there".

Plenty of Advice

Even should all discussion be confined solely to the primary motive for summoning the legislators—unemployment—Governor Pinchot will find no dearth of advice and counsel and opposition, whatever legislation he may have in mind to rid the Commonwealth of enforced idleness and to blot out destitution and hunger.

A proposal to float a "prosperity bond" issue has been branded illegal by the Democratic State Executive committee. That group's suggestion is the direct refund of some $20,000,000 to the various counties for local relief work. The money would be lifted from the Treasury's $70,000,000 and "recaptured" later. An additional recommendation is the slashing of salaries on the Hill.

It is forecast in some quarters that the "prosperity bond" issue proposal would meet with stiff opposition. A legal opinion determining the constitutionality of the issue probably will come first and then the battle will be on.

The proposal probably would be attacked from several angles, according to word passed around here. These angles are: "Who would buy the bonds?" "Could the State Sinking Fund Commission by them?"

Another question coming in for attention is whether, if the Sinking Fund Commission bought the bonds, would the next Assembly approve the purchase or would such approval be necessary to avoid Sinking Fund bankruptcy.

Questions such as these already have been raised, portending another raking over via the forensic route in the legislative chambers.

Of the unemployment relief plans thus far advanced, all indications are that a plan put forward by Senator George Woodward of Philadelphia in his own publication, 'The Pennsylvania Legislator," will come in for considerable attention. Senator Woodward advances no claim to originality for the idea which contemplates the enlistment of the unemployed in an emergency National Guard of Pennsylvania.

'Immediately there will be a sifting of the wheat from the chaff" points out Senator Woodward. "The enlisted men will be under military discipline, be well fed, comfortably housed, receive $1 a day, and particularly, keep their self respect.

"They will build their own barracks. They will send $20 per month to their families. They will be trained not in arms but in the arts of livelihood.

"Instead of Johnny Jones losing his self-respect all winter and finishing the same, or a worse, Johnny Jones than when he began his free meals, he will come out a better Johnny Jones in mind, body and estate than when he went in."

All conjecture in regard to the extraordinary session is simply that—conjecture. There is only one matter that appears safe for prediction. That is that there will be very little unemployment and idleness among the legislators during the session. There is a job for all.

council's efforts to settle the Manchurian dispute dissents but is not regarded as a complete and categorical refusal by league officials.

This statement was made while the council was meeting in secret session this afternoon.

TOKYO, Oct. 15.—Formal notification that Japan does not desire American participation in the League of Nations council's discussions of the Manchurian crisis was cabled to Geneva today.

The government instructed its League council representative, Kenkichi Yoshizawa, to exert all his efforts toward withdrawal of American participation.

No Reason Given

No official reason was given for the government's stand.

A spokesman at the foreign office, however, told International News Service that fears were felt Japanese approval of American participation might have the effect of inflaming anti-American sentiment in this country.

The question of American participation was debated by the cabinet of Prime Minister Reijiro Wakatsuki at a lengthy session.

Yoshizawa had advised the cabinet of the League council's proposal to invite the United States to assign an official observer to the council.

During the course of the cabinet's deliberations, numerous rumors filtered through the closed doors of the room where the session was in progress. There were some reports Japan might welcome American participation on certain conditions, and the adverse decision occasioned considerable surprise.

It was understood Baron Shidehara, in his capacity as foreign minister, immediately drafted a cable of full instructions for Yoshizawa and despatched it to Geneva.

Reaction of the council and the United States to the decision was eagerly awaited.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The proposal that the United States participate officially in the League of Nations council's discussion of the Manchurian problem was regarded in Japan as "unfortunate and likely to excite public opinion," it was stated in an Exchange telegraph dispatch from Tokyo today.

The proposal, according to the dispatch, was regarded as particularly unfortunate as it came on top of the note sent by United States Secretary Henry L. Stimson dealing with the situation.

This note, the dispatch said, was never officially communicated to the Japanese press "in order to avoid a public outburst".

U. S. State Department Silent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—A pall of silence blanketed a surprised State Department today as it awaited official word from Geneva on Japan's veto of American participation in the deliberations of the council of the League of Nations over the Manchurian crisis.

There was a feeling in department circles though that Japan and China were "getting together" to settle their dispute. This was the only immediate American hope of peace in the Orient, since the league's machinery to halt hostilities in Manchuria has slowed down and the United States is merely marking time.

It was understood that Prentiss Gilbert, American consul to Geneva, will be advised to withdraw from the council's deliberations when official word is received of Japan's opposition. He will be instructed, however, to remain in Geneva, his regular post, and continue his "unofficial observings" outside the league's conferences.

Property Depreciates.

Jack Fee, who is also a resident and property owner, stated that he had purchased property at a price of $11,000 back in 1910 or 1911, the valuation of wnich has been raised to $31,000. He said that people will not rent his property because it is not handy a school building, and that as a result, the value of his property has been greatly depreciated in spite of the increased valuation placed upon it for tax assessment purposes.

"Unless you provide a school in the ward, you might as well take the property away from us altogether," he stated.

President Daniel B. Woolcock stated that the school board appreciated the situation in the first ward and has a committee studying the situation at the present time. He stated that it would be out of the question to erect a new school building at the present time, without greatly increasing taxes.

"We don't want a new school building," Mr. Fee replied. "What we want is to have the Martin Gantz building fixed up so that our children can go there."

School Director A. C. Hyde stated that he was in favor of taking care of the children in the first ward and to get away from the awful condition which exists at the present time. He told Mr. Fee that the taxpayers have to pay to maintain the schools and that exactly the same condition existed in the second ward before the North street building was opened as a grade school, following the close of the East street building. He said if the children were taken from the North street building, there would not be enough children in the two districts to justify maintenance of the two school buildings.

Mr. Fee stated that if the vacant properties were rented there would be enough children.

Mr. Bauman inquired if the old Martin Gantz building had not been condemned for school purposes.

"No sir," Mr. Fee stated, "Mr. Dietterle and Mr. Withers went over the building and had it plumbed and it was found in good condition."

Mrs. Davis Speaks.

Mrs. Sarah Dana Falls Davis appeared as the next speaker. She stated that while she did not live in the first ward and had no children, she was interested in conditions about the city. She stated that she felt the old buildings at the corner of North Jefferson and Grant streets should be torn down as they were a menace. She stated that someone might be held up there.

Mrs. Davis further asserted that the entire property was an eyesore and should be made presentable.

Edward J. Davis, her husband, also spoke. He stated that he and his wife reside in the second ward, but that they walked the streets of the city probably more than any other people in town as they make a habit of walking about a good bit. He stated that traffic conditions were dangerous at both the Falls and North street corners and that the lives of the school children were menaced.

He stated that they often went to the Dickson home on Grant street, and that they have to pass the disreputable building at the corner of Jefferson and Grant streets. He stated that the school board should take enough pride in having it fixed up.

He further stated that he owned no property but that he paid a personal school tax and that he was representing the interests of his wife, whose family had attended the old Martin Gantz building. He stated that he understood that the building could be used for school purposes at the present time.

The delegation was assured that the board is investigating conditions in the first ward at the present time and that they hope to be able to do something to relieve conditions.

THIRD MAN CLAIMS GOVERNORSHIP OF LOUISIANA

oath of office with the state secretary. The oath was administered by a notary public and a cousin of Governor Long, E. G. Eagles.

Aldrich declared that neither Long nor Cyr have any right to the governorship. Long forfeited the office when his election to the United States Senate was certified, Aldrich contended. Since Cyr did not immediately assume the governorship, the office was left open, according to Aldrich, and any citizen could therefore take the office by the expedient of having the oath administered and filed.

The Lieutenant-governor's office today was occupied by Alvin O. King president pro-tem of the state senate. King was sworn into office after Governor Long had appointed him to succeed Cyr.

Threatens Cyr

"We're doing business at the same old stand" Governor Long said, "the state of Louisiana is riding along as serenely as if Paul Cyr did not exist.

"Cyr is just out of a job as far as the state of Louisiana is concerned. I'll put him in jail if he gets rowdy."

Fortifying his position, the governor augmented the military guard posted in and about the capitol buildings. A detail of armed highway policemen was stationed in the office of Miss Alice Lee Grosjean, secretary of state. The guards were instructed to eject Cyr should he appear to file his oath of office. They were also ordered to arrest and jail him should he become insistent.

Called back from Atlanta by the governor, Adjutant General Raymond Fleming, commander of the state militia, remained at his headquarters desk in New Orleans in constant communication with the military units in the state capitol.

be handled by the convention a session will probably be held tonight and perhaps another one tomorrow.

Before the convention is concluded the following program will probably be adopted by labor for the ensuing year, according to observers:

Recommendation that Thomas Mooney and Warren K. Billings be freed—with all appeals for funds to gain that end to be subject to the approval of the Federation.

Opposition to cancellation of war debts owed the United States—at least until debtor nations "put houses in order and agree to a disarmament program".

Higher rates for railways, if necessary, rather than reduced wages.

Support for coal miners in campaign of organization and for higher wages.

SENATORSHIPS AND SENTIMENT

GOVERNMENT is too serious a process and the United States senate is too vital to national well-being for sentiment to dictate membership in that body, so opposition to the appointment of the widows to serve the unexpired terms of senators does not mark one as being lacking in the finer sensibilities. Intelligent citizenship will inquire into qualifications rather than into the sentiments involved.

The death of Senator Dwight W. Morrow, of New Jersey, made it inevitable that his widow would be suggested as his successor. Governor Larson and state Republican leaders immediately contemplated such a move, it was reported.

Had Mrs. Morrow nothing to recommend her but sentiment and the desire of her state to show its affection and respect for her husband, her appointment must be deprecated by every thoughtful citizen. Nor would such a purely sentimental move honor her husband. Only in the event that his widow can do justice to the work he left unfinished is a public man honored by succession by her.

Sentiment should not dictate succession to public office, but where the widow's qualifications are manifest sentiment may well serve as further justification for her elevation to high public office.

Nepotism is too prevalent in national, state and municipal affairs in the United States without establishing the divine right of widows to inherit their husband's offices. There is no more reason why widows should succeed to their husband's offices than there is for them to follow their husbands into the grave.

STUDENT SELF-RELIANCE

One-half of the men and one-fourth of the women in the colleges and universities of the United States are working to pay for their educations, according to a statement made by the department of the interior.

The methods used include not only part-time employment but educational insurance, loans of various kinds, scholarships and student funds.

"In general," says the department bulletin, "students and faculties favor a reasonable amount of employment if a student needs financial assistance. The colleges and universities are aiding the employed student by installing college employment bureaus and service agencies, by arranging class schedules. . . . and many other means."

It is to the credit of American college students that so many are availing themselves of the opportunities thus afforded. Unquestionably, the self-reliance cultivated by student employment is a quality which compares favorably with any of the benefits obtainable on a modern campus.

UNCLE SAM HAS NOT BEEN IDLE

There is much ignorant complaint to the effect that the federal government has fallen down on the job of providing construction work during the period of unemployment.

In 1929 there was federal construction to the value of $250,100,000, in 1930 of 446,953,000, in 1931 of $738,567,000.

The number of men working on these national projects has increased from 180,000 in January, 1930, to 760,000 in August, 1931. It is expected that by January, 1932, 850,000 men will be at work on federal projects.

Governor Roosevelt of New York, complaining that the federal government is doing nothing to relieve the situation, asked the state legislature for $20,000,000 to be used in the construction of public works. The expenditure from the federal treasury in New York state this year, on roads and other public works, will aggregate $45,000,000.

In no previous depression has the national government taken special interest in providing jobs for idle workmen.

Perhaps the very magnitude of the public and private effort to avoid human privation during the present depression has served to advertise it and make the people more conscious of it. However, that should not deter, and has not prevented, the government from doing everything possible to take care of the situation.

During the last great depression, that of 1893, the soup-house was about the highest order or organized aid thought of. Tramps roamed the country in armies. The back-door hand-out was the means of preventing idle men from starving. It was every fellow for himself, and the devil take the hind-most. Times have changed, and the character of the American people has improved in forty years.

What Do You Praise?
What Would You Have Others Praise?
The Truth About Ourselves

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Surely, if a man has even a shred of wisdom in him there must come a time when he stops all else and says to himself:

"What do I praise in other men, and what quality of mine do I hunger to have men praise?"

With that double question a man may measure himself, a woman may see what she truly is—if either of them dare.

For it takes a fair amount of both wisdom and courage to ask that question of the self and to answer it boldly.

In our hearts or with our lips we praise the things that other human being do. Even if we do not put our praise into thoughts or words we praise our fellows by the envy that rises like a salty spring within our spirits. If our praise is natural and honest—and not mere flattery for a selfish end—it draws a picture of ourselves that any spectator may see and admire or condemn. If we praise the stupidly ruthless we are like that, too. If we praise vain extravagance we would be as vain. If we praise slyness or rapacity to blind ambition there we stand, too, naked in the slave market for any man to appraise and buy, and our selling price plainly marked. . . . Thus, we give ourselves away.

And in various ways we tell the world what praise it is that pleases us most. We are praised for some trivial accomplishment, for doing the thing that is easier for us—and we like it. The flush of happiness tints our cheeks, and we invite more and more of that cheap praise and advertise to the world that this is the broad highway to our frivolous hearts.

We do not envy the struggle and sacrifice of other men, we envy the rewards that at last they win. We do not envy the hard experience that tempers character, we envy the glamour and the glory.

So we seek praise for our cheap achievements, though far within us we know that if we deserve praise at all we merit it for doing, even though reluctantly, that dull and painful thing we do not wish to do, but know we must accept.

If we ask ourselves, with hard honesty, just once a year perhaps, "What do I praise in other men and what would I have them praise in me?"—we may discover the truth about ourselves that we need to know and we may move ahead just a step or two.

THOSE UNEXPECTED EXPENSES

Unexpected expenses are usually the ones that wreck financial plans.

To make a budget is comparatively easy, to follow it in the light of the unexpected is quite another matter.

It is difficult to establish a budget which will meet all unforseen demands upon the financial resources.

More leeway should be given for "contingences" in the budget outline.

In assuming obligations which must be met within each year, have you not often failed to make allowance which would tide you over money drains of an unusual nature?

Each year brings necessity for certain outlays that could not be figured in the beginning.

Year after year such experiences occur.

They should teach you something in managing your finances.

Is it not true that your estimates of income versus expenses are continually leaving you with too small a margin to cover the unexpected-incidentals of a serious nature which wrack the nerves and test the ingenuity to solve.

Give yourself more leeway in that budget you are planning.

You will probably need it, if you don't your lucky.

Regulation Of Short Selling Believed Duty Of Exchanges

Public Doubts Ability Of Legislators To Deal With Highly Technical Subject With Prospect Of Satisfactory Results

Suggestions that efforts be made to curb short selling on the Stock Exchange find an echo in public comments, but there is reluctance to indorse the idea of legislation on the subject. If is felt that persons familiar with the details of stock trading should give attention to the matter, because of their familiarity with the needs of the situation. The problem is put in the classification of highly technical things which should be handled by experts.

"It is unquestionably true" thinks the BALTIMORE SUN, "that there is a considerable popular fury against short selling." That paper recognizes that "there are probably times when use of this mechanism can be generally dangerous, just as there are times, as they were toward the peak of the bull market in 1929, when failure to use it can be equally dangerous." The Sun, however, concludes: 'Regardless of the faults and virtues of short selling on which no blanket judgment is offered here, far greater public understanding of what is involved than prevails at present is essential to any intelligent scheme of public control. Steps to promote this enlightment are far more to the point at this time than tips on how to placate the storm against short selling that is said to be brewing on Congress by speedy voluntary action."

It is recalled by the DAYTON DAILY NEWS that "the Stock Exchange forbade bear operations for a while in the British crisis, but now the bear is loose again, with a threat of Congressional action hanging over his head." The Daily News adds: "The 1931 bear, manipulating stock prices downward, delays recovery from the depression. The 1929 bulls, manipulating the market upward, precipitated the depression. Why pick on the bears?" The ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION comments: "It looks as though drastic regulation may be expected from Congress unless those who operate upon the stock market take upon themselves the business of correcting any evils which may exist. It would be muct better for them to do so than to continue to defy the lightning of official investigation and regulation."

"An investigation might be clarifying," thinks the LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL, "but rigid governmental regulation is to be applied with caution. Its very rigidity frequently defeats its own object. It is so in the system of justice, where it is insisted that Legislatures should allow the courts more latitude in adapting codes of practice to conditions. The law of custom cannot be ignored safely in any form of barter and trade. Any reform proposed should be initiated by Stock Exchanges, subject to revision in detail according to the dictates of experience."

"Congress may in due course pass laws prohibiting short selling," says the SIOUX FALLS ARGUS-LEADER, 'but the only result will be another impediment to the free trading that should characterize a securities market." That paper holds that "elimination of short selling will not change the trend," and advises that "experience with the grain exchanges is sufficient to show intelligent men the futility of the schemes now proposed."

"The threat of Federal legislation" according to the HOUSTON CHRONICLE, 'is likely to take concrete form unless the exchanges themselves curb the practice." Noting, however, that "the exchanges are indispensable adjuncts to corporate development in this country," The Chronicles voices the warning: 'To change the condition by eliminating exchange transactions would radically alter the basis for all investment in the country. The volume doubtless would be curtailed, and the fluidity of support for different industries would be destroyed. Because there is widespread misunderstanding of those facts among the people generally, there is a great deal of misdirected opcsition to the exchanges as such, their legitimate as well as their illegitimate functions. Short selling appears now not as an illegitimate function but as a very dangerous cne.Legislation in such a situation is likely to be bunglesome and harmful in unsuspected ways. Members of the various exchanges can better eliminate the obvious evils of their system. If they do not, however, the most conservative of men will look to Federal action."

"It is past time for something to be done about the stock market" declares the ANN ARBOR DAILY NEWS, pointing out that "both the Executive and legislative branches of the Federal government are interested in the activities of certain professional raiders." The DULUTH HERALD holds that "short selling in a depression must be stopped, and if the Stock Exchange will not do it, then the law should. The WHEELING INTELLIGENCER contends that, "were all stock transactions required to be outright sales, the whole country would be better off." The HARRISBURG TELEGRAPH suggests that the "New York Stock Exchange suspend short selling for a period of six months, with the understanding that if the need for resumption appeared the rule could be abrogated at will."

"Leaders of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States," remarks the SOUTH BEND TRIBUNE, "favor temporary regulation of short sales on conditions that may be regarded as prohibitive by potential short sellers. The permanency or semi-permanency of legislation would make its use unwise in the short selling emergency."

Commenting on Senator Watson's idea of "full publicity of transactions on margins," the TOPEKA DAILY CAPITAL comments: "Publicity speaks for itself. Pool operations are facilitated by secrecy, which may be necessary to them. The stock market tape is always full of rumors as to certain gambling outfits that are conducting pools in this or that stock or group of stocks. Publicity will be resisted by all professional stock gamblers. According to the Senate leader the stock market will be investigated 'in its entirety, but short selling in particular. At this time stock market bear raids are a brake on all efforts looking toward business recovery. They tend to destroy every purpose of the government and the President."

By EDGAR A. GUEST

WOMAN AND MAN

Since the days of Eve and Adam man has done his best to be Just the sort of male the lady of his fancy likes to see.
When his heart is bent on wooing
he puts on his plumage gay
And goes strutting in her presence in a lordly sort of way.
Then a frail and gentle maiden, with a power which seems absurd,
Can wind him round her finger—till the wedding has occurred.

In his eager days of courtship man is prey to woman's whim.
The damsel that he fancies can do anything with him.
She can change his every notion,
she can lead him where she will.
She has but to speak her wishes and her orders he'll fulfill.
She can wheedle him to doing things
he's never done before,
And can absolutely rule him—till the honeymoon is o'er.

We are products of our women, after all is said and done.
They have shaped us and have trained us since the race was first begun.
When the ladies fancied whiskers,
every lover wore a beard,
But Van Dykes went out of fashion when the first sweet maiden sneered.
As it was in the beginning, so with love 'twill always be.
Man will try to wear the raiment that his sweetheart likes to see.

Not by law are men made over—that's the work of love alone.
The power belongs to woman, if the truth were only known.
She can mold man to her wishes, for the fact is very plain
There is little he won't venture for the maid he wants to gain.
She may easily reform him when he's hanging round her gate,
But to try it after marriage may be just a trifle late.

Daniel Webster Liked Illinois

Once Planned To Settle On A Sangamon County Farm

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 15.—The Illinois State Journal, preparing to celebrate its 100th birthday next month, finds in its old files an explanation of the story that Daniel Webster once planned to settle on a Sangamon county estate and that he established the town of Salisbury, naming it for the place of his nativity in New Hampshire.

Webster made a visit to the Sangamon country in 1837, speaking at Jacksonville and Springfield. He was delighted with the country and declared he envied Governor Duncan, then Illinois chief executive, his "fine domain," referring to the governor's holdings. He said, too, that he would be proud if he were able to compete with the "prince of Illinois farmers," Jacob Strawn.

Real estate agents and townsite promoters of the period were given to representing that distinguished personages had invested in their enterprises and it isn't improbable that some of them boasted of having interested Webster.

An examination of the old records fails to disclose Webster's ownership of property there. If he invested, the title to the land was never in his name.

Salisbury received no impetus by reason of being associated with Webster's longing for a home in the west. It never progressed beyond the status of a mill-site town, which was still casting votes for Andrew Jackson when Abraham Lincoln was a candidate for United States senator.

Woods Candidate For Commissioner

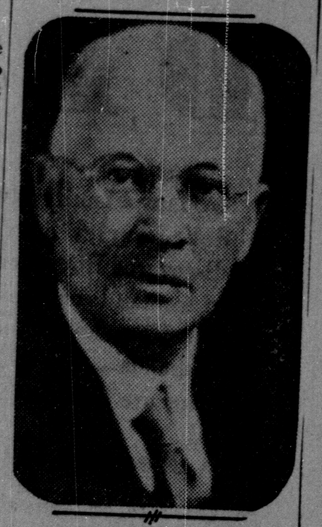
Widely Known Engineer Is Candidate For County Office



FRANKLIN R. WOODS

In announcing myself as an independent candidate for the office of County Commissioner after being defeated at the primaries some may think I am a poor loser and should support the party nominees. This is not the case for while I am not opposed to the party nominees I am opposed to the policy of the present heads of the Republican party. They claim that I have not been active in the party and therefore should not ask to hold public office and for this reason they oppose my nomination. It was not a question of qualifications for the duties of the office but because they could not use me in their political machine.

When you consider that those who are active in the machine are usually well paid either in political appointment or otherwise, there is food for thought in what the result will be to the county tax payers. Machine loyalty does not always secure efficient workers in the various departments of the county. There were eleven candidates for the office of County Commissioner at the primaries all of whom are Republicans yet the machine says only two are eligible and we will select the two and compel the people of Lawrence county to vote for them. By various and devious means known to them the machine has defeated the free choice of of the people in selecting their candidates at the primaries, let us get together and break this machine rule which is not representative of the majority of the voters.

U. S. Has More Pilots Than The Other Five Air Powers Combined

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent
Article No. 2

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Backs of the fighting flying corps, out of the military picture but nevertheless a powerful air power factor, the United States has today more airplane pilots that have the five other important air powers combined.

There are 16,709 civilian pilots in the United States, according to figures held authentic by government officials. The British empire, ranking second, lists 3,427 pilots. Russia has 2,106, Germany 902, France 888, Japan 650, and Italy 613.

These pilots are not trained combat fliers. They are, however, men to whom flying is not new. They are men who have passed rigid flying tests under commerce department air regulations, who can fly an airplane, transport goods and personnel by air.

Army officials regard the civilian pilots as an important reserve in time of war. They pointed out that replacements were steadily necessary under wartime conditions, and that the United States would have a broad, fertile field to draw fighting pilots from should war come. A few Army pilots, they declared, could "do wonders" with a group of men already familiar with flying.

Under war conditions, statistics revealed, these pilots would be allocated to 175 training centers throughout the country, and put through a rigid course in combat flying. The important advantage of their flying experience, it was pointed out, would be the fact that much of the elementary training which in "green men" takes up the longer portion of a combat flying course, could be dispensed with.

Great Britain points for her 3,427 civilian centers that would America however, according to figures. She could start operations immediately at 208 points.

Russia, with all her expanse of territory and in the midst of an air expansion program, has today but 51 centers where combat flying training could be started immediately. France has 26, Italy 20, Japan 15 and Germany 12.

France would have a distinct advantage in the air in case of war as a result of her overwhelmingly large air corps, but the United States has 10,235 civil airplanes which could be used in some connection, immediately. Against this there are British figures of 2,070 planes, while France has but 1,320 registered civil planes, Italy 750, Germany 746, Russia 490 and Japan 360.

If the necessity arose for building combat airplanes speedily France would step ahead in this field, with a production capacity of 200 planes a month. Great Britain's emergency capacity for building fighting airplanes is estimated at 150 a month, Italy ranking third with an 80 plane monthly capacity.

The United States could today start making fighting planes at the rate of 75 per month. Russia could build 60 a month, Japan 60, while Germany blocked in military aviation through post-world war treaties could not build a single plane the first month. She would have to convert civil airplane factories into military production first.

Are You Watching Your Blood Pressure?

Almost every case of apoplexy is aggravated by spells of indigestion, often accompanied by dizziness, especially after eating heavy foods or a too hearty meal.

If you are beginning to be troubled by slight digestive upsets—if you have pain or other distress after eating—if you suffer from sick headaches or dizzy spells—

Start taking a tablespoonful of Dare's Mentha Pepsin before meals. By replenishing your scanty gastric juice and easing the load on a tired stomach, Dare's keeps your stomach from getting out of order.

No conscientious druggist would pretend for a moment that any stomach remedy could absolutely prevent apoplexy. But he will tell you that by keeping your digestion running along smoothly, you are doing much to lessen the danger of an attack.

Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc. and all good druggists guarantee Dare's to overcome indigestion or money back.

THE AUDITORIUM
By R. G. Leslie.

The modern, progressive, scientifically organized school is based on the child's interests and desire to learn. The old school was organized on the basis of the teacher, filling the child's mind with the content of various subjects. The old school centered in the teacher and subject matter. In the modern, progressive scientifically organized school everything centers about the child. It is for the child alone that the school exists. It is realized that the child learns only through his own activity—he learns to do by doing. The teacher's big task becomes that of properly directing the child's activity. Since every activity of the child, everything the child does, results in learning, either good or bad, the teacher becomes a director of learning in that she must carefully guide the child to choose those activities which will result in learning that which is good and worthwhile; to so direct the child that the choosing of proper activities becomes a habit. In such a situation the child must have wide opportunity for choice in order that there may be all-around growth.

To meet more nearly these needs the platoon school has been developed. In this type of school the child has greater freedom that he may have opportunity to choose activities that will result in proper learning.

The auditorium is an essential feature of the platoon school. The auditorium is peculiar to the platoon school. It has no counterpart in the high school, in the junior high school, or in the traditional elementary school. It is one of the features which make the platoon school a modern, progressive, scientifically organized school.

Flexibility is an inherent characteristic of the platoon school. Its program can be made to fit the needs of the community in which the school is located. No part of the platoon school is so flexible as the auditorium. The auditorium has no inflexible course of study or program covering a long period of time. In the auditorium the child is the center of interest and since there are great individual differences in children there is wide variety in its program. Here the child has great opportunity to do the thing he likes to do providing there is real worthwhile learning value in the activity.

At the National Platoon school conference held in Boston and reported in the Platoon School magazine the "aims of the auditorium were briefly summed up in one aim, TO DEVELOP THE CHILD AS AN INDIVIDUAL, A SOCIAL BEING AND A CITIZEN." It was stated that the auditorium should:

1. Make possible a broad culture as a result of a wealth of contacts.
2. Seek to train the appreciations through daily exposure to that which is fine.
3. Offer opportunity for emotional education through story-telling and playing.
4. Develop social instincts in children who have certain experiences in common.
5. Promote activities which develop leadership, self-expression, democratic participation, and citizenship real situations.
6. Act as a unifying, correlating agency in the school, counteracting the undesirable effects of segregation into grades.
7. Re-enforce and supplement activities in all the school departments.
8. Curricularize the extra-curricular. Give worthy activities a definite place in the day's program.
9. Celebrate special days and so teach the continuity of history and the oneness of human experience.

In New Castle the curriculum committee has set up as suggestive the following activities for the attainment of the objectives of the auditorium:

1. Music appreciation.
2. Art appreciation.
3. Current events.
4. Thrift.
5. Safety first.
6. Health.
7. Special days.
8. Conversational topics.
9. Dramatization.
10. Reproduction of stories.
11. Original stories.
12. Visual education.
13. Civic topics.
14. Poem appreciation.
15. Imaginative literature.

In many platoon schools the assembly is an important feature of the auditorium work. The assembly audience may be made up of all the pupils in the school or of certain grades of the school. The assembly program, as the other work in the auditorium, is child centered. This, of course, requires much greater skill on the part of the auditorium teacher than a teacher-directed program. Since the children are immature and inexperienced the auditorium teacher must foresee all the possible difficulties the children will encounter in the assembly program and give specific training at those points so that the child's experience will be both proper and satisfying. It is highly important that the child's experience be proper so there may be right learning outcomes, and that they be satisfying so the child will have no hesitancy in participating in like future activities. Here again the teacher must keep in mind the individual differences in the children. Some children are so sensitive and timid that the teacher must use the utmost care to see that the child meets no embarrassment as a result of a mistake before the audience. Such a mistake would make the child more sensitive and hesitant in a future similar situation. On the other hand, a child who is over-confident and bold might be permitted to make a mistake so he would be more careful in a future similar situation.

The assembly program may be the observance of some special day as Thanksgiving or Christmas or it may be the culmination of some unit of work or project in any of the departments of the school.

A typical project or unit of work might be the early explorers of America which has been worked out in the history class and culminating in an assembly program. The facts would have been gained in the history class, the composing of the play might be done in the English class, the scenery and costumes worked out in the art class and the organizing of the play be worked out in the auditorium class. Or the composing, the scenery, the costumes and the organizing and directing might all be worked out in the auditorium class. In either case each pupil in the class might have a part largely suited to his taste. One pupil would have charge of the program when presented in the assembly period. Other pupils would have charge of the the costumes, scenery, stage, etc. In all this the auditorium teacher would be the correlating and directing agent. She would direct the teachers participating in this program and correlate their work, and unconscious to the children she would guide them in their initiating, planning and preparing and in their giving of the program in the assembly.

The elementary school must deal with the growing child. To grow intellectually the child must be active mentally. He must have freedom to investigate, to initiate, to think things out for himself, and to exercise his judgment. To grow morally and socially he must have opportunity to exercise and develop moral and social virtues by having freedom to move, to be a part of a group, to have consideration for the opinions and the rights of others, and to assume responsibility. The auditorium in the platoon school offers the child an opportunity for all these.

INJURED UNDER SKIDDING AUTO

LATROBE, Pa., Oct. 15.—Mrs. Sheilah Dorr of New York City is in a critical condition in the Latrobe hospital suffering from internal injuries and a probable fracture of the skull as the result of a skidding accident on the Lincoln highway this morning. The car, driven by her husband, overturned, pinning Mrs. Dorr beneath it. Dorr escaped with slight injuries.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resist a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

Rev. Teagarden Acquitted In Ohio Hearing

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Oct. 15.—Rev. H. O. Teagarden, of the Sewellsville Methodist church, won another battle here Wednesday, Justice of the Peace C. B. Bradfield found him not guilty of assault on Elder L. C. Hoffman during Sunday School services two weeks ago.

The decision was made after two days of stormy testimony, in which the entire congregation was greeted by yelling and stamping of feet.

Not another person could have jammed his way into the court room to hear the arguments of the attorneys, which last two hours. Nearly all of Sewellsville's 102 residents were in the court room crowd.

The decision is final, Bradfield having complete jurisdiction, and no appeal will be made.

"It proves that a preacher does not have to turn the other cheek to his enemy when he is struck," was Rev. Mr. Teagarden's statement after the trial.

Teagarden was dropped out of the Northeast Ohio Conference some years ago because of an alleged publicity stunt of trying to swim the Catalina Channel.

He was spiritual adviser to Glenn Dague and Irene Schroeder at New Castle, Pa., before their electrocution for murder last year.

He called recently for deputy sheriffs to guard his revival services from attack of "gangsters." He is now a member of the Sewellsville church.

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs due to colds. It takes but a moment to prepare, costs little, and saves money, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that follow severe cold epidemics.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

DIVIDENDS SOON TO DEPOSITORS

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15.—Payment within 30 days of nearly $7,000,000 to more than 125,000 depositors of three closed Philadelphia banks was pledged today by William D. Gordon, state secretary of banking. He also announced a plan whereby depositors of closed institutions in Pittsburgh, Wilkes-Barre and Scranton would receive dividends soon.

Gordon said a 20 per cent dividend would be paid depositors of the Bankers Trust Company, Aldine Trust Company and the Darby Bank and Trust Company, all of Philadelphia, through creation of a special liquidation private bank acting for the state banking department.

A group of liquidating banks for closed institutions of other Pennsylvania cities was included in the plan, although work on them will not be started until the initial payment of Philadelphia depositors is made October 26.

Coroner's Jury Probes Crash

Investigates Death Of Boy Following Collision With Taxicab

CAB DRIVER NOT HELD RESPONSIBLE

Testimony offered at the inquest held last night at the office of Alderman L. C. Mantz by Coroner J. P. Caldwell in the case of William Brundert, 716 East Reynolds street, senior high school student, who died as a result of injuries sustained when his bicycle crashed into the side of the taxicab driven by Victor McCoy, indicated that the death of the young man was an unfortunate and unavoidable occurrence.

Verdict rendered by the coroner's jury after hearing the testimony of a number of eye witnesses was as follows:—"We, the jury, find that William Brundert of 716 East Reynolds street, New Castle, Pa., came to his death in the Jameson Memorial Hospital on the evening of Wednesday, October 7, 1931, as a result of injuries sustained about 5:30 p. m. Wednesday, October 7, 1931, when his bicycle struck the taxicab driven by Victor McCoy at North Jefferson and Falls streets, New Castle, Lawrence County, Pa., and we believe that Victor McCoy, driver of the taxicab, was in no way responsible for the unfortunate accident."

Driver Testifies

Victor McCoy, driver of the taxicab, stated that he was 23 years of age and resided at 538 Galbreath avenue. He stated that the accident occurred about 5:30 p. m. on October 7 at North Jefferson and Falls streets, that there was no one in his cab at the time and that he was enroute west on Falls street and crossing North Jefferson street, when the accident happened.

He stopped his car on the east side of North Jefferson street, allowing several cars to pass, before he started across North Jefferson street. He looked both up and down the street as he started. The street was clear in both directions, except a car coming north about the North street intersection of North Jefferson street. He had plenty of time to cross before it reached him.

He started across the street in low gear and did not change his speed. His machine was practically over North Jefferson street, he said, when he felt something hit the car. He stopped immediately going, but a little distance, got out of the machine and went around to the right side of his car, and there was a boy lying in the street along the curb of the northwest corner of North Jefferson and Falls street, and to the read of his car.

The boys head was to the west and his feet to the east. He helped pick him up and place him in his machine. Dr. L. W. Wilson came down to the scene from his near by home and after getting into the car and examining the boy, directed McCoy to hurry the boy to the Jameson Memorial Hospital. He did so and the boy died there later of the injuries sustained.

Examination of his car, he said, led him to believe that the bicycle of the boy hit the front right fender of the machine. The right front door was dinged he said and the glass broken. He stated that he did not see the boy before he struck his car. The accident, he said, occurred in daylight and there were no cars parked near the scene that he noticed.

Saw The Crash

C. M. Bohn, who resides at 18 West Falls street, testified of being seated on his porch swing facing east in direct line with the point of contact in the accident. His home he said was about 165 feet from the corner, where the accident occurred.

His attention had been attracted toward North Jefferson street by the amount of traffic going up and down at that time, he said. He noticed a car across North Jefferson street by the Legion Home as it stopped there. He saw it start across Jefferson street and the first thing he knew, there was a crash as the automobile reached the northwest corner and was struck by the bicycle of the accident victim. He thought that it was a neighbor boy, who had just secured a new bicycle and he ran up to the corner. He saw the accident just as the car and bicycle came together.

The body of the boy was lying at the curb with his head, he thought resting on the curb. He saw D. J. Davis of the Legion Home and the driver place the injured boy in the taxicab. He heard the doctor say he was not dead and to rush the boy to the hospital at once. It looked to him, he said, as though the front door was struck by the bicycle.

Sees Boy Fall

Mrs. D. J. Davis, who resides at the Legion Home, testified that she was sitting on the front porch of the Legion Home on the evening of the accident and saw the boy on the bicycle coming down the hill as the taxicab was about half way over. The taxicab, she said was almost at the curb on the west side of North Jefferson street, when the bicycle hit the taxicab. The bicycle, she said was coming very fast, and the boy on it had his head down. He did not appear to be coasting, she said, as her recollection was that his feet were moving. It was her opinion that the boy on the bicycle never saw the taxicab. She had noticed the taxicab stop at the east side of Jefferson street, before starting across Jefferson street on Falls street. She saw the boy as he was falling after the crash, but did not go over to the place.

J. E. Hammond of 208 North Jefferson street, stated that he was on the front porch of that place and saw the taxicab stop at the east side of North Jefferson street. The taxicab started across Jefferson street, he said, and was approximately half way over, when he noticed the boy going down the hill on his bicycle about in front of Dr. Wilson's home. The boy had his head down and was going fast. This attracted his attention more than ordinary and he was watching to see what happened, as he felt that the boy on the bicycle could never get past the car. He did not think that the boy saw the taxicab. The boy was riding close to the curb and the taxicab was almost across the street, he said when the crash occurred. He saw the boy fall to the street and all that occurred in the actual crash.

Taxicab Stops Quickly

Fred Hammond of the same address, stated that he was seated inside the house at a window, which was up on account of the warm weather and saw the taxicab stop at the east side of North Jefferson street. His attention was drawn away from that direction just for a moment and then there was the crash and looking toward the corner where the accident occurred, he saw the boy fall to the street. He did not see the boy coming down the hill. It was his opinion that the bicycle of the boy struck the right front fender with such force as to dent it in and also to cause the boy to swing around and into the right front door of the car, which was dinged and the glass of which was broken. He saw the boy placed in the taxicab and the driver start with him for the hospital with Dr. Wilson following in his own car. The taxicab, he stated had stopped very quickly and within a length or length and a half of itself after the crash occurred.

C. M. Bohn was recalled then and stated that he had picked up a sailor type of cap, which the boy had been wearing. He found it at the scene of the accident. Others testifying in the case had not been sure as to whether or not the boy had a cap on. The jurors then went to the front of the office and saw the taxicab that had been involved in the accident, after which a verdict was rendered.

Board Must Pay Compensation To Injured Teacher

Hospital And Doctor Bills And Weekly Award Made To John McCandless

Report of the hearing held before L. E. Christley, compensation referee, in regard to the case of John McCandless, former swimming instructor at the Ben Franklin school, who has been crippled for several months as the result of infection received while at his duties, was made by Solicitor W. J. Moffatt at the meeting of the school board last evening.

Under the terms of the award, Mr. McCandless is to receive compensation in the amount of $15 per week dating from March 16, 1931, and hospital bills, nurse hire and doctor's expenses, all of which total $1,194.18. His compensation is to continue for a period not exceeding 500 weeks.

According to the testimony offered before Referee Christley, Mr. McCandless received an abrasion on the toe, between the close of the regular school classes and the start of a special instruction class being given for a Red Cross examination in life saving. Mr. McCandless went to dive into the pool to remove a ball, covered with a towel which was also to be used in the Red Cross tests.

The solicitor cited the danger of any work being carried on outside school hours, for outside purposes. The fact that an injury sustained on the school premises, even though actual school work is not being carried on, is given heavy consideration as evidence in the event of an accident, Mr. Moffatt stated, and advised that such activities should not be carried on with the sanction of the school.

Mr. McCandless, it develops, is improving and may be able to return to work as a teacher later on, but not as swimming instructor, his legs having been crippled because of the accident.

Board Scrutinizes All Expenditures

Many Requests For Equipment Are Turned Down At Meeting

Members of the School Board scrutinized all requests for supplies very closely at the meeting last evening, and refused several requests.

One of these was for the purchase of a kodascope for the showing of educational films in the North street building at a cost of $162.00 and the purchase of an audiometer for testing the hearing of students at a cost of $150.

Other requisitions were pared down by the board, with the aim in view of conserving the school funds as far as possible.

NO ACTION TAKEN ON CHEST REQUEST

International Institute Aids In Citizenship

Assists Local Man In Filing Papers For Naturalization In Pittsburgh

One of the many objects of the International Institute, maintained by the Y. W. C. A., will be fulfilled on Friday morning, when Mrs. H. M. Kirk, chairman of the institute will drive to Pittsburgh to take Thaddeus Sobiesku to the Director of U. S. Immigration, in order that he may secure his first papers in naturalization. Mrs. Josephine Sroczynska, one of the Institute workers will accompany Mrs. Kirk and act as interpreter.

Mr. Sobieski cannot get his naturalization papers in New Castle because he cannot remember the name of the boat on which he came from Europe. The law requires that he appear in person with two witnesses before the immigration authorities and go through what appears to the unitiated, a terrifying ordeal of making out endless papers and securing unnumerable references.

The nationality workers of the Y. W. C. A. have helped many foreign-born residents of the city to obtain their naturalization papers and become citizens, by securing the information that is necessary for them to prove legal entry to the country, etc. They also aid in teaching them English and the laws and customs of the land.

Only a few people are allowed to come into the country under the restricted immigration laws now in force, but there are still many who need the services of the institute.

The international institute seeks to make opportunities for friendships between old and new Americans and to instill in both, an understanding and appreciation for the culture of the other.

Claims Ownership Of Oldest Bible

Easton, Pa., Man Claims He Owns Oldest Family Bible In Entire World

(International News Service)

EASTON, Pa., Oct. 15.—J. Clem Kline of Palmer township is putting in a claim as the owner of the oldest family Bible in America.

Kline's Bible, printed at Frankfurt-on-Main, Germany, was completed in 1584, or 347 years ago, making it 14 years older than the volume found in Texas recently and reputed at that time to be the oldest known family Bible in existence, not only in America, but throughout the world.

The book, however, lost all but its American title later when another Bible, completed in 1569, was found in France. The one owned by Kline comes between these two.

The book has been excellently preserved. The original binding was of wood, according to the information that has been handed down, but in later years the wood was replaced by a leather covering. The Bible is illustrated throughout with colored prints which have retained all their original brilliance.

White Informs State, New Castle Demands Funds From Insurance

Robert White, solicitor for the city of New Castle, has notified the state auditor-general's department that, if the department withholds foreign fire insurance funds from the city he, in behalf of the city, "will have to take proper action to compel its being paid to the city as is provided specifically" by an Act of assembly.

Recently the solicitor received from Deputy Auditor-General Wilson a letter which said that if the city, after receiving money from the state fails to pay over into the firemen's relief fund association, the state would stop payments to the city.

White responded to Wilson's letter. In addition he has requested the aduitor-general's department to infrom him as to the amount apportioned to the city of New Castle for the year 1930 and for the year 1931, if that apportionment has been made.

The communications relative to the controversy follows:

Commonwealth Of Pennsylvania
Auditor-General.

Harrisburg, Pa., October 6, 1931.

Mr. Robert White,
City Solicitor,
New Castle, Pa.,

I received your letter of October 1.

Under the Act of April 25, 1929, P. L. 709, we pay foreign fire insurance premiums to cities, boroughs or townships, which, in turn are absolutely obliged to pay this money thus received, into their firemen's relief fund association's treasury. If there be no such association the money must be returned to the state.

If any city after receiving money from the state fails to pay it over as required it is the auditor-general's duty to make no further payments of any kind to such city, borough or township until it applies properly the money it has withheld.

(signed) J. M. WILSON,
Deputy Auditor-General.

In reply to Deputy Auditor-General's letter, Solicitor White responded under date of October 8 that he felt sorry the auditor-general "sees fit to try to oppose the city in its attempt to carry out, as it deems best, the trust imposed upon it by Act of April 25, 1929, as I told you before the city has a wholly paid fire department.

"There are some fire companies in this city and they have an association, but the city has not depended upon them for fire protection although they have always been very much interested in the city fire department and the city has been inclined to help them somewhat financially.

"The city believes however, that before it recognizes any Firemen's Relief association, that association should represent all of the men who serve the city as firement and should provide relief for any man injured or becoming sick while he is a fireman protecting lives and property in the city of New Castle.

"You say in your letter, that if there is no such association the money must be returned to the state. That, Mr. Wilson, is not in the Act of Assembly and there is no authority that you can cite to me, I believe, for that provision.

"I will report in letter to council and if the auditor-general persists in withholding this money from the city, the city of New Castle will have to take proper action to compel its being paid to the city as is provided specifically in the Act.

"I would ask you, therefore, that you advise me the amount apportioned to the city of New Castle for the year 1930 and for the year 1931, if that apportionment has been made.

(signed) ROBERT M. WHITE.

Tax Experts To Be Employed By School District

Offer Services Free If They Are Unable To Save District Money

Members of the school board received a communication from Lehmayer and Yetter, tax consultants, of Harrisburg, Pa., offering their services to the school board to secure a refund of possible overpayments made by the school district to the state on bond taxes.

The letter stated that oftentimes the state has been overpaid by school districts through ignorance of technicalities in the law, and that they would make a survey of the payments made by the New Castle school district free of charge.

They stated that if they were able to secure any refund of taxes overpaid, their fee would be contingent on the savings effected, 50 per cent for the first $500, or 25 per cent for any amount over $500. If they were unable to effect any saving they would not make any charge. On some of the bonds the state is required to pay a tax if the bond is owned by a resident of the state. In some cases they are exempt. This firm claims to have expert knowledge in the matter and believes it can save the district some money.

Woman Seeking Reno Divorce Gets Term On Perjury Charge

Nevada Courts Determined To Halt All Persons Who Seek To Defraud State

New Jersey Woman Given 1 To 14 Years In Prison —Residence Not Legal

By CAROL CROSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

RENO, Nev. Oct. 15.—Easy, but not too easy, divorce is the rule in Reno.

This was apparent today as a result of a one to fourteen year sentence to State prison imposed upon Mrs. Marjorie Witter of New Jersey who sought to cut the customary six weeks residence required by law to thirty days.

The Washoe county bar association has recommended a parole for Mrs. Witter and it was believed she might be granted one.

Pleads Guilty

She pleaded guilty to perjury, admitting she arrived here from her former home in New Market, New Jersey, only 30 days instead of six weeks before the filing of her divorce complaint.

The case against Mrs. Witter was prosecuted by the Grievance Committee of the Washoe County Bar Association.

Harlan L. Heward, prominent leader in the bar association activities, today promised strict prosecution of all who attempt to practice fraud upon our courts." Heward said, "Thorough attention will be given each case that may arise."

Mrs. Witter's case was the third investigation of the kind within the past few weeks.

Frank W. Hill Announces For Controller

FRANK W. HILL

To the Voters of Lawrence County:

I am taking this method of announcing my candidacy for the office of County Controller on the Independent Ticket. I am a resident of the third ward, New Castle; have been a Republican all my life and have never asked the support of the tax payers before.

I am placing my name before the voters of Lawrence County subject to the General Election. Dut to the fact that the above said office was created after the primaries, the voters did not have an opportunity to select a candidate to fill this important position.

I was born near Hillsville and received my education in the public schools of New Castle. I have been interested in the welfare of the city and county and feel that I am qualified for the position.

At the present time, I am executive secretary of the New Castle Retail Grocers Association in which capacity I have been very successful.I was formerly a member of the International Accountants Society and have had a number of years experience in accounting and auditing.

I am tied to no factions and seek the office on my own personal merits, pledging my best to the tax payers of Lawrence county and assuring them that I will look after their interests to the best of my ability if elected in November.

Of the people—for the people—if elected by the people.

Voting Machines To Be Examined

Alleged That Voting Machines Are Defective And Susceptible To Frauds

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 15.—In an effort to determine the "real worth and practicability" of all voting machines, John W. Glover, Philadelphia, today posted a check for $450.00 with the secretary of the commonwealth to assure a re-examination of the automatic voting machines made by a company of that name at Jamestown, N. Y.

Pittsburgh residents already have posted the necessary $450.00 for a re-examination of the machines made by the Poole Manufacturing company. Only ten machines made by the Shoup company were sold in Pennsylvania and they are said not to be in use at the present time.

"It is my contention that the automatic voting machine is defective, susceptible to election frauds and inaccurate and I hope to demonstrate this effectually on this re-examination," Glover said.

National Campaign Planned By Vets

Campaign Will Carry Movement For Immediate Cash Payment Of Adjusted Certificates

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15—A national campaign that will carry a movement for immediate cash payment of the world war veterans adjusted service certificates "direct to the people" is to be undertaken by the Veterans of Foreign wars, Carold D. Decoe, commander in chief of that organization, declared today, after visiting President Hoover.

He carried his organization's plea for immediate payment of the remainder as well as pensions for world war widows and orphans direct to the president despite his knowledge that the executive is opposed vigorously to such measures, because of the government's mounting deficit.

Bernard Eugene Cowden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Cowden, Agnew street, has returned from a visit of several days with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Mathias Fox, Rural Valley.

Advanced Gift Committee Is Hard At Work

Reports Are Made Of Work Already Accomplished By Solicitors

SCHOOLS PUT ON PROGRAMS TODAY

Reports of the work already accomplished by the Advanced Gifts committee of the Community Chest were made at the meeting held in the Y. W. C. A. last evening, with Mrs. Grace Phillips Johnson, president of the Chest presiding.

Workers from the various organizations reported on pledges secured since the last meeting. It was found that substantial progress is being made, and that a number of cards which are in the hands of the workers were for people who are out of the city at the present time. These will have to come later.

There will be another meeting of this committee at five o'clock on Friday afternoon to make a further report. All team workers of this committee are asked to bring with them, any unworked cards; so that these may be gone over and reassigned if necessary. Chest leaders are very anxious to have all of these cards subscribed to and handled by the first meeting of all division teams on Monday noon.

Division "E" committee made the high report last night, Mr. Feuchtwanger reporting for this group. There were a number of cards unreported last night, and with the time between now and Friday to handle them, Chest leaders feel that a good report will be made at the next meeting. They are particularly anxious to have a full turnout of all members of all Advanced Gift committees on this date. Notices regarding this are being mailed out today.

It is expectd to have Chest headquarters moved into the store room of the Y. W. C. A. on the Diamond, on Saturday morning, weather permitting. This place will be very convenient for teams during next week's reports.

Boy Scouts have already placed a number of the Chest placards in various store windows, and merchants who have them, but have not placed them as yet, are urged to do so. The supply is limited so each one will count.

Some very interesting programs are being staged by the children in the schools this week calling the attention of the pupils to the Community Chest and the work they are doing. The programs in the high schools are particularly clever much work having been done by the pupils on the subject.

Nomination Of McCaslin Held To Be All Right

Decision On Petition Of B. F. Moorhead To Have Nomination Declared Void

R. C. McCaslin will remain the nominee of the Republican party for the county controller, according to a decision handed down at court this morning, in which it was held that the petition of B. F. Moorhead to have the nomination declared void, was not supported by sufficient facts to give the court jurisdiction.

Following the nomination of McCaslin by the Republican county committee B. F. Moorhead presented a petition to have the nomination declared illegal, on the grounds that one vote cast by a county committeeman was illegal and one proxy was illegal. McCaslin won by only one vote over James E. Moorhead and if the two votes which were cast for McCaslin, had been thrown out, it would have given Moorhead the nomination.

McCaslin filed a motion to have Moorhead's petition stricken off, and a rule was granted on Moorhead to show cause why this should not be granted.

Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock was the time set for a hearing on the motion. Judge R. L. Hildebrand and James A. Chambers heard the arguments, which were made by William McEwee Jr. for McCaslin and Walter Braham for Moorhead. One of McElwee's points was that while McCaslin had won by one vote over Moorhead on the fourth ballot, nomination had afterwards been made unanimous. It was upon this action that the nomination was certified by the executives of the Republican county committee. Braham took the position that the two alleged illegal votes should not have been counted at all. Authorities were cited by both attorneys.

Judge Hildebrand dictated an opinion following the announcement of the decision, and this will be written out this afternoon.

Bill Davis, Agnew street, has recovered from a recent illness and is now able to be out.

Twenty Have Right To Carry Revolver

Police Chief Refuses To Sanction Promiscuous Carrying Of 'Gats'

REVOLVERS NOT BEING DISPLAYED

Approximately twenty persons have been granted authority to carry revolvers here according to Police Chief Horner today who said that the majority of the 20, are men who are engaged in the carrying or guarding of money or indulge in pistol target practice. Many requests have been refused and no person who cannot furnish a very plausible reason will be given a permit to carry a gun, the chief declared.

Under a state law which became effective September 1, revolver-toting is punishable by a three years penitentiary term or a stiff fine. Display of revolvers is also prohibited.

According to Chief Horner persons are prohibited from carrying shotguns with barrels less than 24 inches; rifles with barrels less than 15 inches and pistols with barrels less than 12 inches.

The police official said that no arrests have been made for violation of the law in this city, since September 1.

"What will you do if a person is found carrying a revolver?" he was asked.

"They will be charged with violation of the revolver carrying law" the chief responded.

RAILROAD MAY ABANDON FAMOUS BANDIT STATION

WINSTON, Mo., Oct. 15—Fifty years years ago the morning of July 15, 1881, the town of Winston sprang into national prominence. Jesse James ond his gang of outlaws robbed a Rock Island passenger train here of $15,000 and killed two men.

The train was robbed by 13 men, including the famous bandid leader, who boarded it just as it left the station here at 7:30 a. m. The conductor and a passenger were killed.

Today, officials of the Rock Island railroad were considering abandonment of the station because of lack of patronage from this section.

BUSIEST TRAFFIC COP DOES LITTLE TALKING

NEW YORK, Oct. 15—Policeman Herbert Mackinnon is stationed at one of the busiest locations in New York—42nd St. and the Grand Central station—yet days pass during which he doesn't get a chance to talk with a soul. His post is on the Grand Central ramp, and no pedestrians pass that way, although 30,000 motorcars do daily. There is one exception to the vocal silence. When Mayor Walker is in town, his car passes by twice a day, and Mackinnon shouts "Hello, Jimmie" and gets a "Hello Mac" in return.

City Aldermen 'Know Stuff' In Negotiating Mute Cases

When it becomes necessary for aldermen of the city to do business with deaf mutes, the understanding aldermen, so one reporter learned today, can perform their stuff.

One man thus physically handicapped visited one of the ward courtrooms today, wrote down any amount of things, read hurriedly the notes penned by the alderman in reply, and then left.

We're called on frequently by mutes," said the alderman. "It's perfectly easy to understand them, and they come to anticipate everything we start to write. Usually we don't have to write much—they assume our thoughts in advance."

Once in a while it takes a heap of paper to negotiate matters, it was added.

Expense Account Is Being Probed At State Capital

Account Turned In By Revenue Department Investigator Has Political Aspect

ADMINISTRATION CANDIDATES AIDED

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Oct. 15.—An expense account on file today in the state treasury shows that C. E. Allison, Bellefonte, an investigator in the department of revenue, accounted for nine days of his time during September doing political work for the administration candidates in Mifflin county.

The expense account not only detailed the eight days which Allison reported as having spent on political work but also carried the assertion that he had received orders for such action from Rep. A. L. Sheffer, Mifflin, through P. S. Stahlnecker, secretary to Governor Pinchot.

As an employe of the gasoline tax collecting bureau in the department of revenue, Allison's salary and expenses are paid directly from the motor license funds. It is from the balance left of the motor license receipts that all state road work is done.

On September 4, the expense voucher carried the following notation: "Called to Lewistown by Representative Hon. A. L. Sheffer for conference on political campaign."

Accounts For Time.

Allison then accounted for his time on September 7 to 12 inclusive and September 14 to 15 inclusive by the following explanation: "Doing political work in Mifflin county for judge, our man, order from Hon. A. L. Sheffer, representative, through P. S. Stahlnecker, secretary to Governor Pinchot. Worked mighty hard in the Kishacoquillas valley and succeeded by vote of nearly 3 to 1. Arrangements were made for services by phone, through above gentlemen, per my response to their call."

The political activity which Allison detailed was in behalf of Paul S. Lehman, 26-year-old lawyer, who was named to the bench by Governor Pinchot. Lehman won the Republican nomination at the recent primary.

Inasmuch as the dates on which Allison was engaged in political work did not show any disbursements of state funds both the auditor general's department and the state treasury paid the expenses which had been incurred on the four days during which he was checking up delinquent gasoline tax accounts. The voucher covered the period from September 1 to 15.

The voucher showed that it had been checked and passed by the revenue department's accountants and bore the signature of H. J. G. Strack, the comptroller, for the secretary. Dr. Clyde L. King, secretary of the department, has been ill for several months.

Claims Damages For R. R. Accident

Case Of Robert L. Cover Against Pennsylvania Company On Trial At Court

The case of Robert L. Cover against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, in which he asks $5,865 damages for injuries sustained when struck by a Pennsylvania train on the Edenburg crossing, was taken up before Judge James A. Chambers in court this morning.

There was a dense fog when Cover drove up to the crossing on July 28, 1930. He claims that he stopped at the crossing, got off his truck and listened for the approach of a train. He heard nothing, and getting back on his truck started to drive across, when he was struck and carried up the track a considerable distance on the engine. He was scalded by steam from a pipe on the engine and was otherwise injured. He alleges that there was no bell rung or whistle sounded as the train, going west, approached the crossing.

Will Try Negro Next Week For Deaths Of Four

Orphan Jones, 60, Negro, Will Face Trial Next Wednesday In Maryland Court

CONFESSES TO BRUTAL SLAYINGS

(International News Service)

BERLIN, Md., Oct. 15.—Orphan Jones, the 60-year-old discharged negro farmhand who wiped out his former employer's entire family with a shotgun and ax, will go on trial next Wednesday for the crimes. He will be indicted by a special grand jury on Monday, according to state's attorney Godfrey Childs.

Four coroner's juries agreed last night that Jones "did wilfully and maliciously" slay Green K. Davis, 55, the latter's wife, Eva, 48, and their daughters, Elizabeth, 15, and Mary Lee, 13, in their little farmhouse near here early Sunday.

Jones confessed the crime, Sheriff Wilmer Purnell said, giving as his motive the failure of the farmer to pay him $1 which he thought he should have been paid.

He was hustled away to Baltimore to prevent a possible lynching when a mob of angry farmers surrounded the little county jail at Snow Hill, near here, and threatened to hang the negro.

Must Reduce World Armaments If Debts Are To Be Reduced

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 15.—The United States cannot reduce its European war debts without a reduction in world armaments, Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, delivering the annual founder's day address at the Carnegie Institute, declared today.

Without disarmament, war debts savings by the debtor nations would only be used by them to maintain larger armies and build greater navies, Ritchie asserted. He held disarmament and war debt cuts must go hand-in-hand.

"It is unthinkable," the Maryland governor and Democratic presidential candidate said, "That we should reduce the debts due us by other nations and leave those nations free to use the money thus saved in building armaments. Armaments are the largest items in the national budgets and for people almost overwhelmed with governmental expenditures there are the strongest possible economic and financial reasons for their reduction and litigation."

Taking as his topic the subject of "Politics and Economics", Ritchie laid down the thesis that these two forces should be interrelated on a scientific basis and not as at present, divergent and at odds. The scientific and trained mind of the nation, he declared, must be drafted into the management of both business and government and listened to. Progress will not be made, he asserted, as long as bad economics blames bad politics for the deplorable state of affairs.

"The two new forces of modern times," he concluded, "are science and democracy. The one has changed the economic and the other the political world. What we need today is a mobilization of the constructive brains of the country and a demobilization of political oratory."

Eloping Heiress Gives Up Dream Of Screen For Work And Is Happy

By WALLACE X. RAWLES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 15.—Abandoning plans for a career in motion pictures a pretty little 16 year old Rhole Island heiress has adopted what she declared was the more interesting career of how to make a husband happy without the parental blessing of her millionaire father.

Violet Jolley, the girl, met Edwin Priestly Jr. 18, a hardware clerk, under romantic circumstances, at a shaded swimming pool in Rhode Island, fell in love with him, and last February they were married and made a honeymoon trip to Hollywood.

Her father, Charles W. Jolley, Harrisville, R. I. manufacturer has not forgiven her, although her grandfather Ernest W. Tickham, owner of a string of textile mills, has 'made up" with her, she says.

"When I eloped and married Eddie, it was the finest decision I ever made" declared the young bride. "I've learned how to work and Ed has learned how to cook.. We are both going to night school and studying art. I work in on office days, and Ed is studying commercial art."

"We haven't gone hungry yet," proudly admitted Priestly. "I've already sold several drawings and I can get a simple meal if I get home in the late afternoon before Violette We just bought a small second-hand automobile."

"And I just love working—I think I'm lucky to have a job, too," said Violette.

"Father was opposed to our friendship, and so was grandfather" Violette said. "There was just one thing to do—elope—and we did it, and I don't regret it. Love is everything. Mother and grandfather write, but father never does. But I've got Ed anyway, and that's all that really counts."

When Mr. and Mrs. Priestly first arrived in Hollywood they planned with a friend to produce a motion picture starring Violette as a "two-gun girl" in a western thriller. The plan proved unpractical, however, and was abandoned—in favor of love in a cottage.

Jobs Are Wanted By State Bureau As Winter Nears

"Give me a job."

That is the plea now being made by R. L. Meermans, "Y" secretary and superintendent of the local employment office of the Bureau of Employment, Pennsylvania Department of Labor and Industry.

Part time jobs are in demand. There are hundreds, it is estimated by the secretary, right here in New Castle, who could do part time work if given an opportunity. Small jobs would alleviate the unemployment condition and feed many hungry mouths.

Jobs around the home are desired. A cellar that needs to be cleaned. A house interior papered, repaired or remodeled. Windows that must be washed. Back yards that could be made presentable.

There is now a long list of applicants at the "Y" state employment office. Persons who have any kind of part time work are urged by Mr. Meermans to communicate with him by telephoning. The number is 215.

Magnate—The man who marries my daughter will want a lot of money.

INVESTIGATION OF FAKE STOCK SALES

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 15.—Prosecutor A. C. Schiffler today launched an investigation into activities of a band of high-powered salesmen who induced Mrs. Almeda Wagner, a resident of the rural section around Clinton, to surrender seven shares of Wheeling Steel Corporation preferred stock in exchange for what officials here believe is a bogus security.

The exchange was not discovered here until Mrs. Wagner appeared today at the Wheeling Steel Corporation general offices to question company employes as to the securities she had been given for her steel shares. She was directed to report her case to the prosecutor and late today, in company of her husband, told her tale to Schiffler.

MY NEW YORK

BY JAMES ASWELL

By Central Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Few realize the extent to which television has become a routine affair at the broadcasting stations. Speakers and singers flit in and out of the hushed small booths all evening, and visitors peek once into the visors of the receiving sets in nearby rooms and pass on. A half year ago the instruments were mobbed like Broadway show windows containing rattles and bells and perpetual motion machines.

My first television experience, the other night, was like a seance, with a machine for a medium and skepticism banished. I was to interview Mr. Arthur Garfield Hays, the great liberal lawyer, of "monkey trial" and other celebrated causes fame.

Mr. Hays is impeturbable. He marched adventurously into the darkness of the broadcasting booth at Columbia. He had never seen a television apparatus before. In the rectangle of flickering light he answered questions with the same passionate conviction which has made him risk mob violence time after time. I should think it would be difficult to thunder down dictums on the rights and liberties of man in that eerie silence, that spooky aura of the machine age.

Mr. Hays is a veritable New Yorker. I wish I might make you know all the other flashing personalities which make Manhattan more than the skyline and the tumbling mob. Mr. Hays is peculiarly a New Yorker for, as he said, "I live here because I like excitement. I like experiment and intellectual tumult and change."

HOP, SKIP AND JUMP

The skyline flutuates like a handmade saw, but that's not what alters the town beyond recall. The changes below the sky line are the important ones—the vanishing landmarks which disintegrate under wreckers' blasts before anyone realizes. This morning I noticed the razing men at work on the old Audubon home, at 155th street and Riverside drive. Here the great naturalist and painter did most of his work. Here F. B. Morse perfected the telegraph.

IN WALL STREET

A sign in front of J. P. Morgan's offices in Wall Street reminds passersby that the sidewalk is private property and permission to use it is "revokable". A similar notice posted by the Irving Trust company, a few doors up the street, declares that the walk there is privately owned and that right-of-way upon it is "revocable". Last week an executive of the bank noticed the difference in spelling of the word and set about discovering who was wrong. The inquiry involved high-ups of both concerns and a good deal of correspondence—even some acrimonious debate. At length both houses found authority to back them and the "k" and "c" remained respectively unchanged.

Time is reported to be hanging heavy in Wall Street, now, anyway, and the folk there must have something to do.

Poking my head briefly into the most expensive and ornate speakeasy-restaurant in New York, where drinks are a dollar and incidentals sky-high, I found the place packed with a merry crowd in evening attire. This was a week night, too. Depression could not be discovered on the premises—where depression, in all reason, ought to stalk most somberly.

THE TRUTH

The most engaging exhibit in the Exposition of Women's Arts and Industries, at the Hotel Astor, is in my opinion the "veracity glass"—a mirror which tells the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth about the complexion of anyone bold enough to give it a glance. The invention of a Mrs. Ann Anzell, this boudoir accessory is modeled after a dentist's mirror and is guaranteed to flash back disillusion or dazzling reassurance, as the facts warrant. "The average mirror just flatters and gives false security," Mrs. Anzell tells visitors to the hall.

ANTICIPATION

In a season of thin, unoriginal drama, I am looking forward to the opening of S. N. Behrman's "Brief Moment" as a possible reason for continuing to live in Manhattan—for I have heard it argued time after time that eating and theatergoing are the only justification for permanent New York residence. So far this fall we have had to be content with the eating, whenever we could afford that.

Mr. Behrman will be remembered for his acidly humorous "Second Man" and his driving and, to me, immensely moving "Meteor." Behrman, along with about three others, must write the good plays of future first nights until a new crop of competent young playwrights materialize. I recall no youngster to get excited about in the theater since the advent of Mr. Philip Barry.

Power Company Men Honor L. B. Round

Male Employes Of Power Company Have Social Evening And Name New Officers

The E. S. & A. Club, comprising the male members of the New Castle division of the Pennsylvania Power Company, met last night in the lecture room for their first fall meeting. Over one hundred men were present and included representatives from the Ellwood and Zelienople districts of the company.

Preceding the social features of the evening a short business session was held and the following officers were elected to office for the ensuing year:

President, C. M. England.

Vice presidents, K. A. Cotton, C. Iatonna.

Secretary, L. J. Lewis.

Treasurer, E. Crawford.

Mr. England responded and thanked the members for the honor conferred and stated that a meeting of the executive committee will be called immediately to outline the activities for the fall and winter months.

Messrs. P. G. Dingledy, N. F. Vidal Jr., O. E. Flora and A. E. Miller, all recently appointed officials of the Pennsylvania Power Company, were present and were ably introduced by the president.

An interesting presentation followed in the form of a brief case suitably inscribed "To our New Skipper—L. B. Round, from the New Castle Division Employees". Mr. Round expressed very graciously his thanks and appreciation for the gift and the good fellowship exhibited by the members.

Mr. Round then presented the "L. G. Golf Trophy" to Elmer Tinstman, winner of the recent New Castle division golf tournament at the municipal golf course.

A musical entertainment followed with a harmonica solo by Walter Cunningham and a saxophone solo by Horace Morgan, both employees of the company.

The Book-Leyde quartet, composed of Messrs. West, Jones, Stritmater and McCowan, gave several selections and made a very decided hit with the assembly.

The remainder of the evening was spent socially—cards, checkers and other games featuring.

The refreshment committee, composed of W. E. Gross, F. A. Beard and H. P. Meehan, served an appetizing lunch later in the evening.

PLAN FACULTY STUNT

A humorous program to be presented by faculty members of the George Washington junior high school within a few weeks is now being rehearsed, the school announces. The affair will occupy a regular assembly period, and parents will be invited.

Brighten Your Home For the Indoor Days With Color

Financial Genius Of Banking World Got $6 Weekly On First Job

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The son of a New Orleans cotton broker who started a banking career at a salary of $6 today was looked upon as the man whose organizing genius may lead the nation out of the throes of economic and financial depression.

He is Mortimer N. Buckner, presidene of the New York Clearing House and chairman of the committee organizing the National Credit Corporation, hailed by financiers as the agency which will thaw out the nation's frozen assets and bring money back into circulation.

Mouth Is Firm

Buckner is tall, square shouldered, and his mouth is firm and thin.

He was graduated in the 1895 class at Yale, a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon, tapped for skull and bones. From Yale Buckner returned home and then went to work as a traveling salesman and later as an insurance agent.

In 1902 Buckner came to New York and went to work in the Continental Trust Company. His starting salary was $6. Fourteen years later he succeeded Otto T. Bannard as president of the Continental Trust Company, which had become the New York Trust Company.

Director In Many Firms

Buckner has been director in many corporations, including the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway, the New York Life Insurance Company and Interborough Rapid Transit. He succeeded the late Jacob H. Schiff as treasurer of the New York County Red Cross and was active in raising relief funds during the Japanese earthquake, Florida hurricane and Mississippi flood.

Took Three Years To Build Up Capone Case

Elmer T. Irey, Chief Of Intelligence Unit Reveals How Facts Were Gained

Is Cast-Iron Evidence That Cannot Be Refuted Is Government's Claim

By MARGARET LANE
International News Service Staff Correspondent
Copyright, 1931, By International News Service

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Behind the Capone trial, now drawing to its close, stands the man who has worked for three years to bring this prosecution about. He is Elmer T. Irey, chief of the intelligence unit of the bureau of internal revenue—an income tax hawk who is hovering watchfully over the revenue morals of the country, and making a special drive against defaulting gangsters.

"The income tax charge is the only really effectual weapon the government has against the gangster," he said to me today. Already we have convicted a number of racketeers in Chicago alone, and Capone's own brother is under sentence of three years for default. Admitting that the government's real object is to put these dangerous criminals out of action, it is as sure a way as any.

Difficult Evidence.

"Of course, the evidence is difficult to obtain, and this case alone has taken me three years, with a staff of skilled investigators constantly watching and checking up on Capone. But now, as you have heard, it is evidence against which there can be no defence."

Inside the court room we could hear the protesting voices of the gang chief's attorneys, expounding their fantastic argument that as Capone had lost considerable fortunes on the race track, he was somehow mysteriously not to blame if he cheated on his income tax returns.

"Not an argument that anyone takes seriously," said Mr. Irey "simply a desperate measure."

Many Honest People.

"I wonder what the percentage is," I asked him, "of rich people in this country who avoid paying the tax?"

"Oh, on the whole, a surprisingly small number. You would be astonished at how honest the ordinary person is about it. Gangsters and other law-breakers, of course, are the worst offenders; but we even found one man—not a gangster, but a man who made a large living illegally—who, when we investigated his suspiciously large income, was able to prove that he had assessed and paid tax on every penny of his criminal gains."

"At present we are concentrating our investigations on the big cities, looking into the affairs of business men and politicians as well as gangsters. President Hoover is interested in our checking up on the gang leaders in this way, but we are interested in checking up on everybody."

Hopes To Jail Capone.

Mr. Irey is a pleasant-voiced young man in spectacles. He has sat through the trial day by day because it interests him more than any he has ever brought about, and he believes that a lot depends on the sentence—if any—that may fall on Capone.

"A stiff term for Capone would be a healthy shock for a lot of others just as bad as he," he said. "That's why the trial really has such moral significance. Capone is the most notorious man in America, and if even he can't get away with it, then a lot of other people are going to think twice about cheating the state."

Former Castleton Manager Off Today For Saginaw, Mich.

Slack, Who Is Succeeded By Manager Toole, To Vacation In Home Town

John L. Slack, who has been manager of The Castleton since its opening and is succeeded as manager by F. J. Toole, leaves New Castle today for a vacation with his mother at the family home in Saginaw, Mich.

The former manager paid high tribute to his many friends in this city, saying:

"The people in New Castle have been very cordial and have co-operated with me in every way. I sincerely regret to leave this city where I have made so many friends. I feel sure that Mr. Toole will continue to uphold the high reputation of this hotel."

Slack said that he will take a month's vacation in Michigan and is yet not certain where he will be transferred by the American Hotels Corporation.

P. T. A. Conference In Beaver Tuesday

The southwestern district of the Pennsylvania Parent-Teacher association will meet in the senior high school auditorium at Beaver on Tuesday, October 20, and members of the various organizations of the city will be in attendance.

Mrs. H. W. McKee, president of the Highland association, asks that any member of the Highland P. T. A. who can go, get in touch with her as to transportation. The members of the executive board are planning on attending.

TALL STORY WAS TRUE.
(International News Service)

LANDER, Wyo., Oct. 15.—Here's one the game warden believed. Guy Bacchus of Lander shot a 250-pound deer with a shotgun, which is against Wyoming game laws. Bacchus said he was hunting grouse, missed, and hit the deer, which he did not see. An instructor in the Lander high school and a citizen of good repute, game officials decided Bacchus was telling the truth. The grouse was unharmed.

Jobless Trampled in London Riot

London's mounted "bobbies" are using strong medicine to disperse this fleeing crowd of unemployed men who staged a protest parade against a proposed cut in the dole. One of the unfortunate jobless is shown being trampled under the hoofs of one of the police mounts as others flee the charging officers. Several of the unemployed were injured in the melee.

Aviation the High Road to Glory But Fame Pays Small Dividends

Few of the Great Air Feats That Thrilled the World Have Brought Worthwhile Financial Returns to Famous Fliers. Veterans Ask Does Glory Pay?

CLARENCE CHAMBERLIN • ROGER Q. WILLIAMS • COLONEL LINDBERGH • WILEY POST and HAROLD GATTY

With the conquest of the Pacific by Herndon and Pangborn, few more fields are left to conquer by airmen who travel the sky route to fame. And they bemoan the fact. But the old-timers at the game look at the struggle for glory from a different angle. They say that fame won in the clouds does not pay and they point out cases to prove it. It is true that Lindbergh's dash to Paris netted him an amount estimated at from $300,000 to $1,000,000, although he refused to commercialize the feat. And Admiral Byrd, who flew over two Poles, cashed in on his exploits, through his lectures and writings. But Clarence Chamberlin, who flew from New York to Germany, did not profit much financially, nor did Holger Hoiriis, who flew to Copenhagen. Holger is now barnstorming for a living. Although the Post and Gatty flight around the world in eight and one-half days was acclaimed as the greatest feat in the history of aviation, the daring fliers did not receive any considerable dividends from the fame it brought them. The same is true of the Pangborn-Herndon flight across the Pacific. Although they won a prize of $25,000, offered by a Japanese newspaper for the flight, they lost two more prizes of the same amount each because they did not fulfill the required terms. The conquerors of the Pacific are actually in the red for $20,000, it is reported.

Novel Unemployment Protest

Wise Americans put notices of their desire for jobs in the appropriate newspaper columns. Others start riots. In Japan both wise and otherwise seek another medium. They hang signs on their backs and the signs are hung on packs in which are carried their working tools, as you see in this parade to the municipal employment agency in Tokio.

Huge Plane Salutes Capitol

Following its christening by Mrs. Herbert Hoover, the "American Clipper," of the Pan-American Airways, largest amphibian airplane in the world, is shown majestically circling over the national capitol at Washington. The ship, a four-motored, 50-passenger Sikorsky, will be put into regular service on the 700-mile hop between Cuba and the Canal Zone, the longest all-water route in the world.

Seriously Ill

Earl Jellicoe, of Scapa (above), commander of the British fleet at the Battle of Jutland, in the World War, back at his home at Cowes, in the Isle of Wight, after a trip to Canada, is reported to be seriously ill. The gallant old sea dog is 72 years old.

Deb Versus Mother

Spring is not more beautiful than Indian summer, and the debutante is not more attractive than her mother. For the mother to dress like the daughter only draws attention to the fact that she is no longer 18; for the debutante to imitate her elders buries her personality. A Lelong model for the mother is sketched. It is a dark green velvet evening gown with eyelet embroidery showing the white satin foundation.

Principals in Strange Case

The strange case of the eccentric belle of a bygone era, who was found to have hoarded more than a million dollars in her New York hotel room for many years, has the world sympathizing with her for the efforts of kin to acquire her riches and faces criticism from others for her secreting of the treasure which did nobody any concrete good. Mrs. Ida W. Wood, now 93 and declared incompetent to handle her wealth, is shown (inset) as she was at 21. Mr. and Mrs. William C. Shields (above), she claiming to be a distant kin of the aged recluse, are endeavoring to have her present guardian changed, although they deny they seek any of Mrs. Wood's money.

To Fight for Wendel Riches

The fairy godmother may have been a little late in showering Miss Rosa Dew Stansbury, 74-year-old spinster, with some of her choicest gifts, but this tiny person, only located relative and possible heir to the $50,000,000 estate of Miss Ella von E. Wendel, who died in New York last March, has only just begun to fight for the chance to become one of the world's richest women. Miss Stansbury is shown in Raleigh N. C., with her attorney, Winfield Jones, of Atlanta, Ga.

Opening Gun on Al

Al Capone, Chicago gang overlord, presumably has had many guns fired at him, but it remained for Assistant U. S. Attorney Dwight H. Green to fire the opening gun for the Government in its case against Capone in Chicago Federal Court. Green is shown as he delivered the opening argument in the trial of the notorious gangster, who is charged with U. S. income tax evasion.

"Old Bill" Brought to Life

After 2000-Mile Foot Race

Statecraft and Comedy Meet

Austere statecraft and ridiculous comedy met and fraternized when Winston Churchill, British political leader, and Charlie Chaplin met at Westerham, the former's estate near London. The two men so widely separated in vocations are shown as they posed for our photographer at the country estate, where the film comedian spent a quiet week-end on his return to his native England after a sojourn on the Continent.

"Ash Can" Waif

Like a sentimental drama that lofty sophisticates would brand as preposterously untrue to life is the story of this little 11-year-old girl, Anna Rickowska, who was found clothed in rags and asleep in an ash can in Philadelphia. The child, her hands and face grimy, was taken to a home for friendless children where she told a pitiful story of being turned out of her home. Shivering and almost speechless, Anna sobbed out a tale of begging on the streets before she wa[illegible]

Know This Man?

Perhaps you don't recognize this man. You've seen him most of the time in kilts, and with a crooked walking stick, famous integral parts of his customary make-up. You're right. It's Sir Harry Lauder—in a serious mood. This picture was snapped as the noted comedian attended the funeral of Sir Thomas Lipton in Glasgow, Scotland. The great sportsman and Sir Harry were close friends.

Social Worker Wins Honor

Percy Waxman, editor of Pictorial Review, is shown presenting Jane Addams, famous social worker of Hull House, Chicago, with the $5,000 award given to the woman who has contributed most to the national life in letters, art, science, philanthropy or social welfare. Jane Addams is 71 years of age and has long been noted for her remarkable welfare work. The presentation took place in New York.

So This Is London—Sez You

We can't help thinking that Edmund Lowe, American movie star, pulling his famous expression "Sez you? Sez me!" as he watches London "bobbie" point out a landmark in the British capital to Mr Edmund Lowe, or Lilyan Tashman (to you). Miss Tashman, Hollywood's most fashionably dressed woman and Lowe, who made the "sez you" expression part of American slang, are in England on vacation. Everybody seems to be enjoying this three-some.

Many Radical Changes In Bible Translation Ready For Publication

Final Proofs Being Read On Translation By Two Scholars Of Divinity In Chicago

Changes In New Bible Are Bound To Shock Many —Much Criticism Is Expected

By GEORGE C. GALLATI,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Final proofs were being read Wednesday on the latest American translation of the Bible which the University of Chicago Press will grind out next month.

Extremely modern in its diction, its translations and its typography, the new Americanized Bible represents three and one half years of studious effort on the part of two noted scholars of Divinity.

Expect Criticism

No little amount of criticism is expected by its authors, Dr. Edgar Goodspeed, who wrote the revised New Testament and Dr. J. M. Powis Smith, who edited the Old Testament.

"There is always a prejudice on the part of uniformed people when a revised work of this sort makes its appearance," Dr. Goodspeed explained.

"They forget, perhaps, that the King James Bible was revised five time since 1611."

Biblical scholarship has progressed almost apace with the physical sciences in the last half century, Dr. Goodspeed explained in discussing the new work, and the revised Bible is based upon the fruits of this new Biblical knowledge.

Bound To Shock Many

Changes in the new Bible are bound to shock many of its readers, Dr. Goodspeed predicts. The Lord's Prayer, for instance, appears in a much changed form. It reads:

Our Father in heaven,
Your name be revered!
Your kingdom come!
Your will be done on earth as it is in heaven!
Give is today bread for the day,
And forgive us our debts, as we have forgiven our debtors.
And subject us to temptation, but save us from the evil one.

Again, instead of the familiar, "In the beginning God created heaven and earth," the revised document reads, "When God began to create the heavens and earth, the earth was a desolate waste, with darkness covering the abyss and a tempestuous wind raging over the surface of the waters."

LOOKING BACK
IN NEW CASTLE

Giant Sycamore tree near the southwest corner of North Jefferson street and West Washington street in the public square, has been there a great deal longer than any present resident of the city can remember and the indications are that its age is such that as a small tree starting on its growth must have been away back in the dim past and when the "forest primeval" prevailed in this section. There has been discussion from time to time relative to the probable age of this tree but it never has been solved and probably never will be. There are those here, who remembering back some seventy years ago remember this tree as having been in the pubsquare at that time and one said the other day that "it was just as big around then as it is today" indicating the possibility that it is several hundred years old. One man remembered away back when this tree was not as now located along the sidewalk of Jefferson street as it intersects the public square. Of course its location was not changed. what he meant, he explained, was that Jefferson street did not at that time go through the center of the public square and it was necessary in getting from North Jefferson to South Jefferson street to go around the end of the public square. There maye be those who can give more authentic data as to the age of this tree than what has been said here, but it looks rather doubtful, but if there is, there are a number of people in the city, who would be very greatly interested in learning "How Old This Tree Might Be."

Fifty Children Have Close Call As Bus Crashes

Bus Loaded With Children Crashes Into Auto And Telephone Pole Near Uniontown

(International News Service)

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 15. — Fifty school children narrowly escaped death or injury Wednesday when the motor bus in which they were riding to the Uniontown public school crashed into a telephone pole after colliding with another machine.

The children were badly shaken up but none was injured.

Herbert Edenfield, of New Salem, was driver of the bus, which struck an automobile driven by Sewell Creel, of Hagerstown, Md., according to police. The bus crashed into Creel's car when Edenfield attempted to pass a truck which had come to a sudden stop in order to avoid striking two children on the highway.

Creel suffered a broken nose and several cracked ribs when his car plunged over an embankment.

Newspapers Send Editions By Plane

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 15.—Use of airplanes to deliver newspapers to outlying districts is being undertaken by several newspapers in Illinois in an effort to expedite the delivery of editions.

One of the first papers to use airplanes for such service was the Chicago Daily News, which inaugurated the airplane delivery service for its late editions in the area surrounding the metropolis.

The Bloomington Pantagraph is another newspaper which has been using such a service for several years. The Pantagroph also uses its planes to obtain pictures and for various promotional stunts.

In southern Illinois the first newspaper said to have adopted this style of fast delivery was the West Frankfort Daily American. The publishing company recently added a plane to its delivery service and will now transport its late editions to nearby cities.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

School Watchman Will Be Granted Police Powers

Board Will Make Application To Court For Special Police Power For Stewart

Special police powers will be asked for Constable Robert Stewart, who was recently employed by the Athletic Council, to watch the stadium property at Taggart Field.

A petition will be presented to the court by School Solicitor Moffatt, asking that Mr. Stewart be named School Policeman, which will give him further power in making arrests for offenses committed about the school property.

According to the report made to the board, not only have the windows in the Trade School and stadium been broken, but the stadium was entered and a number of football jerseys were stolen recently.

A group of youths were apprehended by Supt. of Grounds and Buildings Ligo, on a charge of stealing bleacher seats and were held for the December term of juvenile court by Alderman Green, before whom informations were made.

It was revealed at last night's board meeting that depredations have also been committed at the Lincoln and Garfield and Rose Avenue buildings, the local police apparently being powerless to apprehend the culprits.

'Four Hundred' Figures

Social Leaders Of New York And Nation As Seen By Ethelda Bedford, New Castle News Staff Writer

MRS. A. FELIX DU PONT, JR.

By ETHELDA BEDFORD

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Pretty enough to carry off laurels in a universal beauty contest, Mrs. A. Felix du Pont, Jr., is one of the younger, but no less great, ladies of New York society.

Charming of manner, she is tall and fair. Grecian features, delicately carved, with shapely lips and thin, straight nose. Her forehead is just the kind of forehead one yearned for when off-the-forehead hats were the rage.

Wears her hair in wide waves. Her hair is a soft brown, with gold lights. Parts it in the middle and brings it back simply, exposing half of her ears, to a low coil.

Before her marriage she was the much-sought-after Eleanor Hoyt, daughter of Richard F. Hoyt and Mrs. Kathleen Stone Hoyt.

Brilliant Debut

Gotham society had one of the most impressionable thrills when the lovely Eleanor was introduced into its ranks. Hers was one of the most brilliant parties of that or any season.

She likes sports of all kinds, and has been particularly inclined toward aviation. It was this interest which led to her romance with young A. Felix du Pont, who is no greenhorn when it comes to sky paths.

Her father, son of Charles C. Hoyt, of Brooklyn, Mass., is one of the founders of the Curtiss-Wright corporation. So his daughter, Eleanor, Mrs. A. Felix du Pont, that is, has been practically cradled in an airplane.

So those who knew her intimately were not surprised when she expressed her wish for a honeymoon in the clouds. She had it, too. In fact, she has most of the things she wants.

Air Honeymoon

She and young du Pont had a mutual interest in aviation. And because of this her father presented them with the latest thing in seaplanes when they were wed. They climbed right into the wedding present and took off on their honeymoon.

Mrs. du Pont is the granddaughter of the late Galen L. Stone and Mrs. Stone, of Boston.

Her parents were divorced recently. Her father quickly married Mrs. Nelson Doubleday, who had just been divorced, a social registerite. Since Mr. Hoyt's remarriage Mrs. Hoyt has preferred to be known as "Mrs. Kathleen Stone Hoyt."

Mrs. du Pont has a naturally gay disposition. Seldom blue or moody, her friends say. Has a natural flare for clothes. Looks especially well in sports clothes, which she wears a lot. Is not a great talker, but has that enviable poise of the perfect listener. Uses little make-up and looks particularly smart in long earrings.

Phalanx Chapter Inducts Officers

Formal Installation Last Night; Name Committees For Coming Year

An introduction of its newly-elected officers featured the regular Wednesday evening meeting of The Phalanx, local young men's service fraternity, in the fraternity room at the Y. M. C. A.

Those who were installed by Mentor Jack Boyles, a past president, were: President, Bruce Ewing; vice president, Earl Brookover; secretary, Dean M. Staley, and treasurer, Don Thompson. President Alfred Owens, who had served two years, retired.

During a short business meeting which followed the ceremonies, a Hallowe'en party and the matter of membership was briefly discussed.

The following committee chairmen were named last night: Service, Alfred Owens and Charles Matthews; house-finance, Ron McCoy; entertainment-social, Mike Bowden; membership, Earle Brookover; athletic, Richard Smith; devotionals, William Wallace; community affairs, Lauri Laurell; speakers, Elroy Lockley, and menu, Linden Bruce.

To Relieve Catarrhal Deafness And Head Noises
If you have catarrhal deafness or head noises go to New Castle Drug, Eckerd's or your druggist, and get 1 oz. of Parmint (Double Strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water, and a little sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.
This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little, and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has catarrhal deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

CONVICT WINE BRICK SELLER

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15.—The first Philadelphia conviction in a wine brick case was recorded today when Stephan La Scola, 27, of Lynhurst, N. J., was found guilty of violating the state prohibition act. He pleaded nolle contendere and was given a suspended sentence.

Detectives testified La Scola told them how to make wine with the compound.

In announcing his decision Judge Theodore Rosen said be believed possession of the wine brick was not illegal, "but sold with the directions given, it was a violation of the law."

Charges against La Scola were that he "offered for sale and possessed for sale a certain preparation, compound and substance, to wit, compressed wine bricks, designed and intended for use in the unlawful manufacture of intoxicating liquor."

Piles Go Quick
No Salves—No Cutting
Thousands of sufferers from itching, bleeding or protruding piles have learned that quick and lasting relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor cutting remove the cause.
Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To end Piles an internal medicine should be used to stimulate the circulation, heal and restore the affected parts.
Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEMROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID tablets from their own druggist with a rigid money back guarantee.
Dr. Leonhardt's prescription has a wonderful record of success right in this city and Eckerd's and New Castle Drug Co. invites every Pile sufferer to try a bottle of HEM-ROID and guarantees to refund the purchase price if they do not end Piles in any form.

Many Teachers Studied During Summer Vacation

Report Of Attendance At Various Institutions Is Made To Board

Ninety teachers in the New Castle schools took special courses during the summer, while 31 others, spent the summer in beneficial pursuits, it was reported to the board, by Superintendent of Schools, C. C. Green last evening.

In the latter class, were included teachers who studied at home, took correspondence courses, attended educational conventions, or spent the summer in travel.

In addition, there were 98 teachers who took extension courses during the school year of 1930 and 1931.

Some of the studying was done in schools as far distant as the University of Southern California.

PAYS SCHOOL TAX ALTHOUGH IN EUROPE

Although Gabriel Zingarro and his wife have been residing in Europe for the past three years, they have been paying a school per capita tax, it was stated to the board by Mike Fazzone, their representative last evening.

When the tax statements are sent out, there is no way of a property owner telling whether the per capita assessment is included as the two items are not separated. The matter was referred to School Solicitor W. J. Moffatt.

GREEN TO ATTEND STATE MEETING

Permission to attend an educational conference in Harrisburg on November 4 and 5, was granted Superintendent of Schools C. C. Green by the school board last evening.

Fever And Lassitude Symptoms Of Paralysis In Child; Warns Doctor

During Epidemic Any Child Who Is Ailing Should Be Suspected Of Having Disease, Health Writer Urges

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Infantile paralysis is an infection. It particularly affects the nervous system, but it is a general infection also.

All general infections result in fever. Many cases of infantile paralysis have a fever without any paralysis at all. In any case, they all begin with fever.

Therefore, especially during an epidemic, any child who comes down with a fever and shows lassitude and irritability should be suspected of having the disease. This is very important because the prevention of paralysis by the use of convalescent serum is best accomplished in the early stage.

The convalescent serum does no harm. Even if the child does not have infantile paralysis it does no harm. It should be given to every suspected case in the early stage.

Especial reasons to suspect a sick child (a child with fever) of having infantile paralysis are given by authorities as:

1. Prostration out of proportion to the temperature.
2. Mild redness of the throat.
3. An anxious expression, and irritability and a rapid pulse.
4. A coarse tremor or movement of muscles.
5. The head tilted back on the neck.
6. Stiffness of the spine and pain when attempts are made to move the spine.

The serum used is the blood serum of any person who has had the disease. It is given in the spine and in the vein both.

In a series of cases carefully studied it was shown beyond doubt that it shortened the course of the disease. The cases which had the serum early had far less paralysis than those who did not have the serum.

After the attack has subdued the amount of paralysis that exists is always more than its final extent. There is a widespread inflammation in the cord during the height of the disease which affects more muscle groups than are actually finally paralyzed. With every day that passes one or more muscles regain their power of movement. It takes three to six months to determine the exact amount of paralysis that is finally left.

Encouragement to move the muscles and passive movement by others help to restore the power of movement. Many muscle groups are saved in this way. Re-education of muscle groups will do much to give control of a limb which might otherwise be lost. Massage is not recommended to be done too early, "until, for example, the patient can elevate the upper limb when sitting up, and the heel when lying on the back."

Even after the proper time has elapsed to determine the full extent of the paralysis much can be done to prevent deformities and lameness by orthopedic surgery.

The exercise which the child is encouraged to do in the period of recovery should be made as attractive as possible so that the exercise will be continued a long time. So toys should be employed. A good place is in the bath tub, kicking a rubber ball, etc.

MISSION SEEKS FIRE ESCAPES

School Board Is Told Mission Is To Be Made Charity Center Of City

Contribution of a set of fire escapes from the Martin Gantz school building was asked by representatives of the board of directors of the Rescue Mission, who told the school board that the building is being remodeled for a charity center, and that the second floor would soon be occupied by the Red Cross, Associated Charities, and Boy Scouts, for office purposes.

The fire escapes were sought so that transients could get to the third floor of the building where they were given lodging, without going through the offices on the second floor.

The request of the Mission was denied after being discussed at length, due to the discussion over the probable use of the Martin Gantz building for school purposes, in which event the fire escapes would be needed.

It was also brought out that the escapes on the building were too wide for the purpose wanted by the Mission and that they would have to be cut down, anyhow.

ASKS PERMISSION TO SING AT GAME

Permission to appear at the football game Friday evening and to sing between the halves, was denied "Soldier" Caruso, who stated that his home is in Lancaster, Pa., and that he travels about over the country making public appearances and taking up a collection.

The matter had been rejected by the Athletic Council and the school board concurred in the action of the council, stating that they were not in favor of such propositions.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Discipline Of School; Home Differ

Parent Who Has Been Teacher Has Many Problems

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

Many letters come to me from mothers who are, or have been, teachers. Nearly always they say that they find the problem of rearing their own children very different from, and much harder than the problems of teaching other people's children at school. "So many problems a teacher never meets," is a common statement in their letters.

Apparently the teacher-parent excels in matters of routine. She has relatively few problems until the child begins to toddle. From her teaching experience she had learned to set high standards of obedience. To her amazement her own child at three or four may prove to be a little rebel.

She easily could demand and get obedience at school. There her word was law. Certain routines were accepted as the thing to do. Like sheep her pupils readily fell in line. She had the overwhelming force of group suggestion and accepted authority back of her. But her child at home is an individual. If she pursues her school custom of ruling him she soon has a stubborn child, unless he happens to be so overawed as not to venture self-expression.

Having had at school some children who did not readily conform to grown-up discipline, she had vowed over and over to herself, "When I get my children they will mind." Accordingly she attempts to keep her vow. She also had resolved to train her children in good mannners. She began early. To her astonishment her own child does not respond as she had hoped, and she concludes that she must have a very stubborn youngster. Probably she discovers this same trait in her husband or an uncle, accepting it as an inescapable product of heredity.

This mother did not recognize in the child of three or four a personality wholly different from the child of seven or twelve, and that the home situation is entirely unlike the school situation.

Most of all, she had not discovered the world of difference between authority-which-prevents and authority-which-promotes. Her troubles will diminish at the moment when she clearly sees that whereas a little pain or disapproval may deter the child from throwing a block in the house, for instance, no amount of pain may suffice to make him throw it, in case he choose not to do so. The animal trainer has for decades observed this difference. But very few parents have; and the parents who had been trained to teach school, seem least likely to discern the distinction.

The teacher-parent who entirely grasps this one principle ought to be able to be a superior parent. Much of the training she had acquired ought to contribute toward successful parenthood in her. Despite all she had learned in psychology, and teaching methods, her failure to comprehend and practice this principle may render her a failure as a parent or, at least, very inferior to a fellow parent who had never read a book in psychology or heard a lecture in parent education.

Some illiterate parents, indeed, hit upon this basic principle by accident, as the easiest way to get along with the young child, without having the slightest insight into the psychology involved. This principle I have discussed at length in my pamphlet, "Punishments and Rewards."

(Each Monday at 2 p. m. Doctor Myers speaks over WHK, Cleveland, on the general subject, "Home and School." This is a non-commercial service for parents offered by Cleveland college of Western Reserve university. The addresses are particularly suited for study groups of clubs and Parent-Teacher associations. Those who would like to have a free copy of the programs of these addresses should write him, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O., enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.)

BABY FRETFUL, RESTLESS?

Look to this cause—

Does your baby have nights when he fusses, tosses and seems unable to go quickly, quietly to sleep? Look for one common cause, doctors say. A constipated condition.

To get rid quickly of accumulated wastes which cause restlessness and discomfort, nothing is better than genuine time-proven Castoria.

Castoria, you know, is made specially for children's delicate needs. It is a pure vegetable preparation; contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics of any kind.

It is mild and gentle enough to relieve a young infant's colic pains, yet is an effective regulator for children of school age.

When your baby is upset and unable to sleep, or has a little cold or fever, it is a wise precaution to give him the gentle but sure regulative help of Castoria. With regulation come relaxed comfort and restful sleep.

Keep a bottle always on hand. Children like the taste of real Castoria—which always has the name, Chas. H. Fletcher, on the package.

Changes Made In Ellwood Lineup

Scrubs Are Moved Up To Varsity—McKim Out For Season

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 15—Ellwood High will have an exceedingly light team when it stacks up against Homestead High on next Saturday at Lincoln Field. Due to the injury of Tom McKim who is out for the remainder of the season with a wrenched back and Mike Paal who has been ordered to rest for two weeks because of torn and badly strained muscles in his back, it was necessary to fill in their places with other capable men.

Just recently Caesar Butler was promoted from the third team to the varsity and now two more of his former team mates follow him. They are Joe "Mouse" Navolio who will fill Paal's shoes at legt guard it was announced and Luxenburg who has developed into one of the best charging fullbacks on the squad.

Luxenburg's work has been observed in pratices and in junior games and he has finally been given a work out with the varsity, where he has stayed since the first of the week. Until he is absolutly off his feet he is always good for two yards. He is only a Freshman and yet a little green but shows great possibilities by the end of the year. He has not much beef as some of the other fullbacks on the squad but his driving qualities are admirable.

Navolio has been turned into quite a capable guard and has shown some good speed in running interference. A few of his faults will be ironed out before game time. Coach Howard Gills announced that he expects to start Navolio in Saturday's encounter and Luxenburg will be entered later. Both have shown good qualities in the scrimmages this week. Navolio weighs only 138 pounds which brings the team average down quite a bit

The local squad was drilled on defensive work this week and especially the backfield in backing up the line. The varsity line would scrimmage with the third string backfield against the varsity backfield with the third string line. Like changes were made in the second team. This had a double advantage to the team. It gave the backs more experience in backing the line and it made them work harder to gain through the varsity forward wall. This is the type of competition the backfield would expect in a game.

Charley Frisk, varsity halfback was reported ill and did not do any serious training this week and is not expected to enter Saturday's contest.

A new change has been noticed in the varsity backfied this week. Dick Wilson was switched from quarterback to halfback and Bobby Kennedy of the second string took the generalship post. Pander took the other half back post and Vanderillo and Luxenburg alternated at fullback. The line remained intact with the exception of Navolio.

A great grid battle is anitcipated when Coach Campbell's warriors of Homestead invade Ellwood City for their first contest since 1925 when "Peck" Lee's great machine took a decisive victory. Homestead is hoping to avenge this defeat on Saturday. Coach Campbell is well known here, being a former basket ball star on the Shelby court. This contest will start at 2:30 p. m.

On Trial for His Life; Daughter His Accuser

Roy G. King, Principal Actor in Colorado "Lovers' Lane" Murder Drama, May Plead Parental Indignation in Slaying

GLENDA KING — ROY G KING

LEWIS J. "BUDDY" PALMER

Interest in the approaching trial of Roy G. King for the murder of Lewis J. (Buddy) Palmer, his daughter's suitor, is at fever heat in Colorado Springs, Colo., as the date draws near when the accused man will be given the opportunity to tell his story. Sharing the spotlight with King is his 18-year-old daughter, Glenda, on whose accusation he is facing the capital charge. One night, last July, Glenda appeared at a house on the outskirts of the city, driving young Palmer's car, in which lay the dead body of its owner. Questioned by the police, she told a tale of being held up by a roughly dressed man who shot and killed Palmer when he resisted. But on further grilling Glenda changed her story many times, until she finally broke down and named her father as the slayer of her "boy friend."

Ask Rural Folk To Fix Mail Box Approaches On 258 Miles Of R. F. D.

An urgent request for rural mail patrons to improve the approaches to their letter box stands wherever necessary, in order that carriers can make their rounds during the winter without any delay, was announced this morning by Postmaster Edwin W. Crawford.

The postmaster took note of the unseasonable weather now due, expressing the hope that residents along the country routes will cooperate in every way possible with their postman. He said their cooperation of a year ago was appreciated.

Rural carriers who serve the nine routes out of the city, covering an aggregate distance of over 258 miles, find winter difficulties enough on their travels, it was said. Cleared approaches to the mail boxes allow them to speed up their work.

Postmaster Crawford reminded patrons that stamps and stamped envelopes are part of the equipment of every rural carrier. They can make sales providing the patrons are present to meet them as they cover the routes.

Timely Hints Are Given To Farmers

Timely suggestions for farmers are contained in the following bulletin issued by the School of Agriculture, Pennsylvania State College:

Use Leaves In Garden—Leaves add organic matter when spaded into the garden soil. They also make a good mulch and protection to rose bushes and shrubs from damage by frost.

Avoid Seeds In Mulch—In mulching the strawberry bed only material which is as free from seeds as possible should be used. Otherwise, the bed will grow up to weeds and other undesirable plants.

Promote Herd Health—Efficiency of the dairy herd is increased by good health. Tuberculosis, Bang's disease, and mannitis are destructive diseases, reducing production and increasing costs. Diseased animals should be removed and the herd protected from contact with other herds where contageous diseases exist.

Pack Eggs Carefully—Use only sound and clean fillers and cup flats in the cases. Pack all eggs with small end down. Do not pack extra large or weak shelled eggs, say Penn State poultry specialists.

Cull The Poor Layers—Loafing hens in the farm flock eat the profits the busy biddies make. Good poultrymen keep the boarder birds just long enough to detect their deficiencies. Then they consign them to the butcher.

House Farm Implements—A farm machine that stands out all winter not only depreciates in value but requires a lot of extra time and patience to get it ready to run when needed again.

Clean Up The Garden—Cleaning up the garden this fall will prevent much of the trouble with insects, diseases, and weeds next year.

Feed Needy Bees—If the bees do not have 45 pounds of honey per colony for winter food and spring brood rearing, the supply needs supplementing with sugar syrup.

Of course some criminals care only for the game, regardless of profit. The papers report several thefts of cotton.

Low Prices May Reduce Trapping

HARRISBURG, Oct. 15.—Game commission officials anticipate considerably lessened trapping activity during the coming season because the low price now being quoted for raw furs.

The raw fur market which started to head downward in 1929 has continued in the same direction until at present the prices quoted are the lowest since before the war.

Because considerable experience is necessary to net a good return on a season's trapping in normal times it is doubted that even those who are unemployed will be attracted during the coming months.

Commission officials, however, urge continued trapping of weasels and gray foxes, both of which carry bounties, because of their destruction of birds and game life.

NEGRO IS HUNTED

CHARLEROI, Pa., Oct. 15.—Police scoured a wooded area near Ellsworth today for Jim Figpin, 32, negro, following the disappearance of a money pouch containing $480 from a truck driver of a local furniture store. The driver was set upon in Figpin's boarding house when he went to collect money, police were told.

(International News Service)

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 15.—Provision for the erection of a home for women is contained in the will of the late John Reber, hosiery manufacturer and former congressman, which had been filed Wednesday for probate.

ELLWOOD MAN GIVEN PATENT

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 15.—Lee Sekulski of Ellwood City, has been given the patent rights on a conveyer feeding mechanism, the United States Patent office announces.

Sekulski has been waiting since October 4, 1929, for recognition on his invention which he has assigned to the Matthews Conveyer company of Ellwood City. The mechanism has ten novel features.

The patent office says of the invention.

In combination, a main conveyor, a plurality or feeding conveyers, means for actuating said feeding conveyers, one at a time, and a stop means on each feeding conveyer adapted to allow passage of articles to the main conveyer when a feeding conveyer is conditioned for feeding articles, but operative to arrest passage of articles from the feeding conveyers when the latter are in non-feeding condition.

Announcing CLIMATIC CONTROL*

A SCIENTIFIC ACHIEVEMENT! GASOLINE THAT GIVES YOU THE HIGHEST LEVEL OF PERFORMANCE WHEREVER AND WHENEVER YOU DRIVE

YOU HAVE noticed how your car's performance varies with driving conditions. Heat and cold, sun and rain, dryness and damp, high altitude and low—all these make a difference. The reason is that all gasoline is extremely sensitive. It is affected by changes in "engine heat" caused by these climatic variations. • At last something has been done about it. The makers of Mobilgas have developed Climatic-Control. By this scientific achievement, Mobilgas automatically adapts itself to every variation in "engine heat," giving you the highest usable level of performance wherever and whenever you drive. All without increase in price! Fill your tank today and let your car decide.

CLIMATIC-CONTROL is the pre-adjustment of the specifications of Mobilgas so that it automatically adapts itself to the variations in "engine heat," even as high as 400° F., caused by changes in temperature, altitude, humidity and road "pull." In the Mobilgas Research Laboratories, all these changing climatic conditions have been "manufactured" in hot and cold testing-chambers. Here engine tests are conducted day after day. The road performance of Mobilgas is thus scientifically verified at different "engine heats," and its specifications are pre-adjusted before it is placed on sale in your locality.

HOT ROOM TESTS — In this specially constructed chamber, electric heating units, controlled by thermostats, duplicate the summer temperatures of your locality. Tests are made at as high as 150 degrees F., hotter than the hottest day you have ever known. Here the "hot weather" pre-adjustment for Climatic-Control in Mobilgas is scientifically verified.

COLD ROOM TESTS—By turning off the heat units and turning on refrigerating apparatus, the engineers reproduce driving temperatures as low as 20 degrees below zero. This verifies scientifically the "cold weather" pre-adjustment for Climatic-Control.

"ENGINE HEAT" READINGS —On this control panel, equipped with the most delicate instruments, the exact performance of Mobilgas, under the different "engine heats" produced by the hot and cold room tests, is measured and recorded. With this exact knowledge, the specifications of Mobilgas are then pre-adjusted to provide it with the element of Climatic-Control.

New Castle Battles Woodward Friday

TOLEDO TEAM CLASHES IN FINAL NIGHT GAME

Local Red And Black Eleven Hopes To Hit Winning Stride Again

Game Starts At 8:00 O'Clock —Visitors Are Coming For Revenge

In the final night game of the season here, the strong Woodward high school grid eleven of Toledo, Ohio will oppose the New Castle high combination Friday night at Taggart field. The game starts at 8 o'clock.

To date the Ohioans have played two games. They won their first game and upset the dopsters in the second clash by holding the strong Scott high gridders of Toledo to a 0-0 tie. This is the first time Woodward has ever had the distinction of earning a draw with the highly touted eleven from Scott. "Gig" Thomas, New Castle scout who watched the Woodwardians in action last Saturday reports that the visitors are a trifle smaller than last season.

Offensively, they have about the same formations as last season with their big fullback DeShetler making sweeping end runs behind a wall of good interference. It seems that Woodward is going to bring an eleven here which will put up one of the best games of the season.

Kudlinski and Kohocinski in ends runs and Friedman in off tackle smashes are the Woodward scoring threats. Kohocinski at quarterback is adept at snaring forwards passes. The Toledo Times in a recent issue concerning the coming game Friday night made the following statement: "New Castle upset the Polar Bears (Woodward) in their first meeting in 1930 by a 12-6 score but will be forced to place a stronger team on the gridiron to stop the Bears Friday night, as the latter is out to get revenge for the defeat last season."

The New Castle-Woodward game in '30 was easily the best of the season. Action was plenty from start to finish. New Castle scored first and then Woodward came back with a tally to even the count. In the second period New Castle again crossed the line for the points which won the game. New Castle won but during the second half the Woodwardians displayed much fight. In several instances the visitors almost scored.

New Castle feels confident that they will hit their stride again and pull through with a victory on Friday night

Despite the loss of Joe Kolodjeski, New Castle passer, the local mentor is trying out several of the substitutes in the hope of finding one to replace Kolodjeski. William McIver, Tom Rambo, Kominic and several other substitutes are fighting hard to secure the varsity backfield post. With the exception of H. Workman the line will probably be the same as last week.

Friday night will be the last time fans will have an opportunity to witness the local eleven in action under the lights this fall. The advance sale of tickets indicates that another filled stadium will be on hand to watch the New Castle ramblers take the field against the Ohioans.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

The old story that fame is flitting is once again evident in the case of George Sisler, one of baseball's great stars during his years as first baseman for the St. Louis Browns. He was returned to St. Louis yesterday with an unconditional release from the Rochester club of the International league and has no plans for the future.

Sisler, who plans to remain in St. Louis during the winter, said he had an understanding with Rochester that if he wanted his release he could have it. When he told the Rochester club officials he did not want to play there again next year he was released. The former Browns' star is now in his thirty ninth year. He won the highest honors in baseball without being in a world's series.

In the fall of 1922, he was chosen the most valuable player of the American league and was the first to be awarded the honor. In that year he set the league record for a season's batting average with .420. Twice he hit over .400, his other peak having been reached in 1920. For the 13 years he was with the Browns he had a batting average of close to .350.

Bill Tilden must have found professional tennis to his liking also to his pocketbook as he is now in Paris with Frank Hunter. They will play in Paris, October 21-22 after which they will tour Germany, Holland, Belgium and Italy.

Lawrence Conti has secured a lease on the Armory, Neshannock avenue and has made application to the State Boxing Commission for a license to promote boxing.

John D. Martin, president of the Southern association, said today in Memphis that the St. Louis Cards are considering making an offer for the Knoxville-Mobile franchise in the association. Major league ownership in the association, taboo for years, has been approved by club owners of the Southern.

James Rowe, trainer of Mrs. Payne's Whitney's Greentree stable, has announced the retirement for the season of Twenty Grand, winner of $259,925. The big bay has been out of training since receiving a slight leg injury in winning the Jockey Club golf cup at Belmont Park, September 19.

Massachusetts ring officials have refused to sanction a boxing match between Tommy Crowley of Pittsburgh and Kid Chocolate of Cuba. In turning down the bout the eastern body acted for the interests of the game. Crowley isn't a match for the Cuban.

Battling Battalino will defend his featherweight title against Earl Mastro in Chicago, November 4, according to announcement from Chicago today. The match was made by Nate Lewis of the Chicago Stadium. The featherweights are booked for 10 rounds.

Johnson Becomes Head Of Garden

James J. Johnson, Takes Over Managerial Reins At Madison Square Garden

EXPECT REVIVAL OF BOXING GAME

By LES CONKLIN.
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—James Jabbering Johnston, promoter of boxing matches swimming meets, automobile races and marathon races in his time, became the biggest figure in the leather-pushing industry today when he took charge of boxing at Madison Square Garden.

The 600 millionaires of the world's greatest boxing corporation were forced to take the dapper little cockney into the fold after he had run them ragged for the past four months by putting on better shows at the Brooklyn ball park.

Three Year Contract.

Johnston has a three-year contract as vice president and general manager. His old friend President Bill Carey, the bridge builder who was unable to cope with the machinations of the boxing racketeers, will let Jimmy run the works. "Uncle Jimmy" will install his own matchmaker and assistants, Matchmaker Tom McArdle departing for other pastures.

Johnston's salary will be $25,000 a year but a transfer of 30,000 shares of Garden stock in his name may swell his profits to $100,000 annually.

Johnston managed four world's champions—Johnny Dundee, Mike McTigue, Ted Kid Lewis and Harry Greb. This quartet won seven titles.

Later Jimmy promoted boxing at both New York ball parks. Shows he staged included the Tunney-Carpentier and Leonard-Tendler bouts.

Jimmy knows his cauliflowers and boxing men predict a revival in the sport throughout the country this winter.

Enthusiastic Response By Colleges In Regard To Benefit Grid Games

Owen D. Young Pleased With Way In Which Colleges Of Nation Responded

Expect To Raise About $20,000,000 For Unemployed As Results Of Post Season Games

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Enthusiastic response of America's colleges and schools to his appeal to arrange football games for the idle will bring millions of dollars for unemployment aid, Owen D .Young said today, more than $20,000,000 may be the total raised by the benefit games.

From coast to coast leading teams are rallying to follow the appeal for the jobless as voiced Wednesday by Young, Chairman of President Hoover's committee on the mobilization of relief resources.

Will Draw Opponents

Eight prominent Eastern elevens will play in two post season games under the Young plan. Columbia, Princeton, Cornell and Pennsylvania will meet in one of New York's huge baseball parks on December 9, and Yale, Brown, Holy Cross and Dartmouth will appear in Yale Bowl on December 5.

The eight teams will not draw their opponents until the day of the contests and will play two games of 20 minutes each, the winners playing in a final contest. This will give the fans an hour's review of some of the best teams in the East and tickets will be sold at popular prices.

Army And Navy

Army and Navy will play in New York December 12 in one of the big contests and practically all of the Big Ten Conference teams will meet in post-season battles or donate receipts of a regularly scheduled game.

Penn State, University of Southern California, St. Mary's, University of Detroit, California, Wesleyan of Connecticut, Manhattan, Catholic University of Washington, Maryland, Georgetown, George Washington and many others were expected to join in the big parade of benefits.

E. K. Hall, chairman of the Intercollegiate Football Rules Committee and spokesman for the eight Eastern colleges which will play at New Haven and New York, said the net proceeds of each of the tournaments would be delivered to the presidents of the participating colleges. The money will then be devoted to unemployment relief as the presidents of the colleges see fit.

An interesting sidelight to the New York tournament developed when it was learned Coach Gil Dobie of Cornell might introduce some revolutionary football plays as Cornell made its appearance.

For years, it was said, Dobie has had ideas about doubtful plays, which might prove marvelous ground gainers or might be complete flops. Dobie one of the best known of American coaches, has never been able to introduce his plays, but in the competition in New York he might turn his team loose with the new combinations.

Hall predicted that the fans at Yale Bowl and here would see some "wide open" football, inasmuch as no title was at stake and the teams engaged would be more likely to take chances, "shooting the works" in their offensives.

CHINESE TEACHERS HAVE HARD JOBS

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15.—Teachers at the Commodore Stockton School, in the heart of Chinatown, have one of the hardest jobs in educational circles. Before they teach the three R's they must teach their pupils English.

Bright-eyed, with near, squarely cut hair the Chinese pupils learn the language step by step through impressions of the meaning of English words in relation to the simple experience of their home lives.

Bright colored pictures, pantomime and acting are used. Then, when they understand the language, they begin more formal education.

Tenderfeet Get The "Casey Run"

How Practical Jokers Play An Old Game In Nevada

RENO, Nev., Oct. 15.—You've heard of "snipe hunting," grunion hunting, and other games played by practical jokers, but this section of Nevada has a new or rather an old game, played on the tenderfeet. It's called "Casey Run."

An ardent swain is picked for the victim and the stage is set. He is told that a certain address at a certain time he may meet "the best looking girl you ever saw." He is prepared to meet a "princess of goodfellows" and while enroute for the date his "friends" remember that the girl friend has an old fashioned father who delights in shooting her suitors.

"But he probably won't be home at this time," the would-be wooer is told. And of course in front of other men he can't show his fright.

John Suitor goes to the girl's home. A male voice calls out in answer to his knocks, or the ringing of the doorbell:

"Who's there?"

John Suitor is nervous, but his friends are watching from the car parked in front.

"Why this is John Suitor," he mumbles. "I'm calling for Miss Blank—"

The conversation rarely goes farther. From the interior comes an exclamation of supposed rage and a few shots. John Suitor is started on the "Casey Run" to escape the "father" that pursues him.

In the old days, Russia was so enslaved by religion that a traveler could sleep at night without chaining his handbag to his wrist.

Juvenile "Fish"

Four-year-old Majorie Best, reputed to be the world's champion baby swimmer, has arrived at Los Angeles from her home in Detroit. A winner of six silver trophies, Majorie is showing the West Coast what she can do in the water. When only a year and 11 months old Marjorie learned to swim—and she's been setting juvenile records ever since. One of her most famous feats was swimming a quarter of a mile up the Detroit River in 18 minutes.

Cadets Confident of Taking Crimson

When on October 17 the Army Mule sees red in the form of the Harvard grid warriors, one can be sure that a homeric battle will be the outcome. The West Pointers got away to a flying start by chalking up a 67-6 victory against Knox, and Coach Major Sasse is confident that his boys can give a spoonful of the same medicine to the Crimson gridders. Last season the Cadets won a 6-0 decision over Harvard, and with such stars as Ken Fields and Robert Carver twinkling more brilliantly than ever, Captain Jack Price is confident that the well-known mule will gallop away with the laurels However, the Crimson coach, Eddie Casey, also has an abundance of confidence which one is inclined to believe justified when one considers that Captain Barry Wood is no novice when it comes to doing things with a pigskin. Harvard won its opening game with Bates, 28-0. Gene Record, one of the shining lights of the Crimson tide, was slightly injured, but he'll be in the lineup at West Point when his team makes its bid to wipe out last year's defeat. May the best team win.

COLLEGE GRID NEWS

(International News Service)

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 15—Yale's football squad will leave today for its game with the University of Chicago. Coach Stevens announced the same team, with the exception of left guard, which started last week against Georgia, would face Chicago. MacArthur or Nichols probably will be at left guard. The rest of the lineup will be: Flygare, left end; Wilbur, left tackle; Doonan, center; Barres, right end; Rotan right guard Hall, right tackle; Parker, quarter; Booth and Taylor, halfbacks and Muhlfeld, fullback.

CAMBRIDGE, Oct. 15—Another drill today and a light workout Friday will mark Harvard's final preparations for the game Saturday against Army. Moushegian and Hageman worked yesterday with the first team. The team will leave early Friday for Briarcliff Manor. Crickard will probably start in the backfield, although Eddie Mays, alternated with him in yesterday's practice.

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 15—For the most part the Navy will use second string players against Delaware on Saturday, saving the regulars for the Princeton tilt.

WEST POINT, Oct. 15—Sebastian, Kilday, Stecker and Elliott may be the backfield started against Harvard by Army. This make up was used on the first team yesterday. Part of the drill consisted of a showing of the passing attack of the Crimson by the Scrubs, while the regulars watched from the sidelines.

SYRACUSE, Oct. 15—Syracuse will have full strength for its battle Saturday against Florida. Several of the regulars are suffering from slight injuries but will play. The Florida team was expected to reach Syracuse in time for a final practice tomorrow. The team will then go to an Inn at Cazenovia to remain until game time.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15—Fisher, quarter, may be missing when New York University plays Holy Cross on Saturday. Fisher is suffering from a shoulder injury. McDermott a Sophomore, will take the place of the quarter if he does not start.

ITHACA, Oct. 15—Viviano, Ferrara and Kline were today considered certain backfield starters for Cornell against Princeton this week end. Condon is likely to start at No. 1 back with Hedden in reserve.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 15—Junius Ferrall, regular Ohio state end, was in the hospital today with a broken bone in his left hand. Physicians said, however, he will be able to play with a cast in Saturday's tilt with Michigan.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 15—Purdue's grid squad was to undergo a light practice session today. Yesterday the boilermakers went thru their last hard scrimmage in preparation for the Wisconsin game on Saturday.

INTRODUCING Coach Harvey Harman By JACK SORDS

Copyright, 1931, by Central Press

Not yet 31—he was born in November, 1900—Harvey J. Harman has risen to the important intercollegiate post of head football coach at the University of Pennsylvania.

Despite the fact that prior to his selection late last year Penn football matters were in a rather sorry condition, Harman has come to his new post with the assurance that the school and faculty are solidly with him. He is a unit in the new football deal given Penn.

Harman, despite his youth, is a veteran coach with a record that points to his ability.

Born in Selingrove, Pa., where his father was teaching English in Susquehanna university, Harman first began to play football in grammar school in West Berwick. Continuing at Peabody high of Pittsburgh and New Castle high, he won scholastic "all-team" honors as guard and center.

At Pitt he starred at left tackle under Glenn L. (Pop) Warner, then Panther coach. Leaving Pittsburgh, Harman was recommended to Haverford by Warner as the ideal man for that school's new coach.

In the eight years at Haverford Harman met with much success, giving Haverford a highly successful team in its collegiate circle. Last year found him at Sewanee, from which school Penn "drafted" him for coach this season.

Harman is married and lives at Narberth, Pa. His wife was formerly Miss Wilhelmina Eakin of this city.

Expect 3,500 Spectators At Westminster-Grove City Game On Saturday

Westminster In Good Shape For Contest—Alumni To Return

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 15.—Graduate Manager Andy McDonald of Westminster College announced yesterday that 1,000 additional bleacher seats have been installed at the football field for Saturday's game with Grove City.

The wooden stands, which were rebuilt this fall, are on the north and south sides of the field, and a special stand for children has been built on the northeast corner. The new bleachers will extend the wooden bleachers entirely around the field, making an oval.

A block of 500 seats are being reserved on the south side of the field for alumni. The grads will wear special badges, will sit together between the two 40-yard lines, and will have their own cheer leader.

Indications are that there will be at least 3,000 fans, not including the 530 Westminster students, at the game Saturday. Although the Grovers, with a veteran team, are top-heavy favorites to win the game, many expect to see Coach John Lawther's "freshman' outfit play its best game of the year.

All the members of the Titan grid squad came through last week's hard game with Allegheny without injury, so every man will be available for the traditional Grover contest. Saturday's game will be the fortieth between the old rivals.

Three-Legged Jailbird Saved From Stew

DANVILLE, Ill., Oct. 15.—"Jiggs," a three-legged rooster is living a luxurious life in a restaurant here after being incarcerated in the Vermilion county jail with his master. Edward Williams, who is still serving a sentence.

"Jiggs" shared his master's fate when Williams was sentenced to serve six months on a charge of violating the federal auto theft law and became the pet of the county jail inmates. The rooster even had a special waiter, who was Carl Shelton, former member of the Southern Illinois Shelton gang, until his crowing kept jail inmates awake all one night.

For a while it appeared that at least three prisoners would have a rooster leg for Sunday dinner, but Williams came to "Jigg's" aid and obtained his release from jail.

"Jiggs" was then adopted by a restaurant employe who promised to feed him until Williams is released.

MAN FOUND DEAD IN PITTSBURGH

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 15. — An autopsy was to be performed on the body of Frank Lehman, World War veteran of Johnstown, Pa., who was found dead in a packing box in an alley, according to a coroner's report. A restaurant employe discovered the body. It was believed the victim had succumbed to the effects of exhaustion and starvation while seeking an improvised shelter.

He was indentified from papers in his clothing.

MAKES NEW WILL AND THEN DIES

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 15. — Five minutes after he had drawn up a new will, Lindin McElvenny, 64, died of a heart attack, according to a coroner's report today.

Following the death of a former witness to his first will, McElvenny went to the office of Alderman Howard James to make a new will and as he departed from the room, collapsed.

And it will be generally agreed that Pepper Martin put some spice into the games.—The Lowell Evening Leader.

STOOPS ON DUTY LOCAL STATION

Private W. E. Stoops, state highway patrol, Greensburg, has been assigned to duty with the New Castle detachment of the patrol. He relieved Private Ardinger, who has returned to the patrol barracks at Greensburg.

TRAIN HITS TRUCK, BROTHERS INJURED

GALLIPOLIS, O., Oct. 15.—Oscar Frye, 34, and his brother, Byron, 25, of West Columbia, W. Va., are in a hospital here in serious condition from injuries received when their truck was struck by a Baltimore & Ohio train.

And Now, Sheeketski

Joe Sheeketski, Notre Dame's new halfback, looms as a potential Irish football star. Joe has shone in early season games. Remember his name: Mr. Sheeket-ski — you'll probably be reading a great deal about him one of these football days.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Stocks Rally Today Under Lead Of Rails

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Stocks rallied this morning under the lead of the rails and specialties, recovering from 1 to 4 points of the losses sustained yesterday and Tuesday.

Brisk buying of New York Central, New Haven, Southern Pacific and other well known rails was in line with the growing impression that financial help from the roads will appear in more than one form within a short period. The Interstate Commerce Commission's decision relative to freight rates is expected this week or next.

New York Central's 4-point rise to 60¾ was a feature of the early trading in the rails. New Haven pushed up nearly 3 points to 43¼ and Atchison was up 3½ at 114½. Chesapeake and Ohio, Southern Pacific and other favorites rose a point or two.

Capone's Losses On Horse Races Being Revealed

Seven Gamblers In All Have Taken Stand For Capone—Claim Losses $217,000

TORRIO-CAPONE SEEN TOGETHER

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

FEDERAL BUILDING, CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Testimony dealing with Al Capone's losses on the horses was resumed today before jury in federal court, where Chicago's underworld king is on trial for evasion of the income tax.

Harry Belford, who described himself as a "speculator" for 25 years, was recalled as the first witness. He had testified that Capone had lost "between $20,000 and $25,000" betting with him on the races in 1927.

Eight witnesses, most of them gamblers, have taken the stand for the defense and sworn to losses by Capone aggregating $217,000 during the period from 1924 to 1929, covered in the indictments.

Prosecutor Dwight H. Green cross-examined Belford. He asked him how many names he went under other than Belford. The witness first answered "no other names", but later admitted he is known under the nickname of "Hickory Slim".

Met at Track.

Belford said he was introduced to Capone some years ago by Roy Jones. The witness testified his transactions with Capone were at the Hawthorn race track where Belford was a bookmaker.

Q.—(By Green) Did you ever pay people who won bets on the races by check?

A—Sometimes.

Q—Did you ever pay the defendant, Capone, by check?

A—No.

Although Capone often went to the Hawthorne track with friends, Belford could not remember who accompanied him.

Belford admitted that last Monday night he attended a conference called for 9 p. m. at Capone's headquarters at the Lexington hotel.

He went there in response to a telephone call from Capone. Among those present at the conference was Johnny Torrio, Capone's first boss in Chicago.

Defense Through.
(BULLETIN)

FEDERAL BUILDING, CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Although the defense had not formally closed its case at the trial of Al Capone for income tax evasion they announced shortly before noon today that they had put on their final witness. They still had arguments and motions to make to the court, it was stated by Defense Attorney Albert Fink.

While the Sino-Japanese situation in Manchuria was growing more alarming, two of these three men hurled defiance at each other when the positions of their respective countries were presented to the League of Nations Council at Geneva. Dr. Alfred Sze, China's representative, dramatically interrupted the explanation of Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japan's delegate, about the Manchurian situation to charge Japan with continued unwarranted attacks. Prentiss Gilbert, U. S. Consul at Geneva, may, if invited, participate in the Council's peace efforts.

Jobless Relief—With an Axe

Here's one way of solving the unemployment problem. It consists of exercising a little of the well-known elbow grease on the community woodpile, and is far more effective than many of the theories advanced by the silk-hatted, frock-coated gentry of the world. These men were unemployed residents of Lincoln Park, Mich., until they were put to work cutting and sawing on the civic woodpile. They draw a small wage and are thus able to support themselves and families.

Seized as Baby Killers

Would Like To Sell Back His Canal Bed

(International News Service)

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Oct. 15.—C. H. Ruggles' investment in Florida real estate didn't turn out as well as expected—so now he wants his money back. Ruggles bought the bottom of the Miami Canal, or at least part of it, from the state and paid land taxes for seven years.

Now he has found he hasn't any use for it, he told the Everglades Drainage Board. W. I. Evans, attorney for the board, advised against return of the money and suggested that Ruggles seek redress from the internal improvement fund which sold him the property in 1921.

Ruggles said he thought the drainage district might find the land useful and the board took his request under advisement.

Submit Resolutions To Federation Of Women

Concluding Business Session Of State Federated Convention Held Today

Prominent Speakers Are Heard Wednesday—Attack Money Spent For Prisons

(International News Service)

YORK, Pa., Oct. 15.—Resolutions were to be submitted today to the convention of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women at concluding business sessions of the annual meeting.

The highlight of the gathering was the annual banquet last night when more than 600 women members and several notable guests were present.

Dr. Bruno Roselli, professor of Italian at Vassar College, was the principal speaker, taking for his subject, "Whither Bound, Womankind?" Samuel S. Lewis, State Secretary of Highways, extended greeting.

The luncheon given by the American Citizenship Department, in charge of Mrs. Steven M. Byers, of Washington, Pa., was addressed by Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, who appealed to members of the federation to maintain work in the educational departments with the view of development of the high character of American citizenship.

Hear Mercersburg Head

The delegates also heard an address by Dr. Boyd Edwards, headmaster at Mercersburg Academy. Dr. Edwards was presented under the auspices of the department of education, of which Mrs. James G. Chalfant is chairman.

Elwood B. Chapman, president of the Pennsylvania Parks Association, called the attention of the delegates to the fact that Pennsylvania in its last appropriatio. gave $3,000,000 for the partial construction of one penitentiary.

"I would like to ask for that $3,000,000 for parks instead," Mr. Chapman said. "Could not the men for whom the penitentiary is being built have a great deal more fun in a forest park? And wouldn't they be a great deal better off?

Hear Woman Attorney

"This is not an idle joke. If there had been near the large city a forest to which one of these men could have taken the family hiking, swimming, and cooking the meals over the open campfire, isn't it conceivable that there might have been no place for him behind prison walls?"

Additional speakers of the day included Dorothy Strauss, a New York attorney who discussed "some national and international aspects of the status of married women"; Grace Abbott, chief of the children's bureau, United States Department of Labor, Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, of Brockton, Mass., a candidate for president of the General Federation when it meets in 1932 at Seattle.

Why does a duffer speak of "taking up" golf? That isn't the direction he takes it.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Got a letter today from a chap who has an uncle in Nebraska, living on a large farm. After reading the letter and remembering the abundance of crops in this section of the country it seems hard to believe that the weather took such a cut at the crops.

The wheat return from 175 acres amounted to a total of 20 bushels. The oats return from 100 acres amounted to 30 bushels, with sixty more acres that couldn't be cut at all. That hardly sounds like any wheat or oats surplus in Nebraska this year.

This is a red letter day today. The first trip down town and I feel like a kid with a pair of new red top boots. It's a great feeling if you known what I mean and the calendar gets a red circle today.

If there are any more tough breaks for the New Castle High football squad they ought to happen soon. Most everything but a case of tonsilitis for the cheer leader has occurred and the sun should shine soon.

Wife Beaters May Suffer Floggings

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Oct. 15.—Men addicted to the indoor sport of wife-beating will find themselves on the receiving end in an outdoor sport known as "public flogging" unless domestic affairs in Freeland take a turn for the better.

That's a threat for the husbands and a promise to the wives of Freeland and emanates from Chief Burgess Thomas J. Lewis. An example will be made of the next paterfamilias adjudged guilty in the burgomaster's court of that offense.

Grading System In Schools Is Declared Wrong

Dr. Wilbur L. Beauchamp, Of University Of Chicago Talks To State Teachers

DEFINITE GRADE IDEA ALL WRONG

By LEO V. DOLAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 15.—Criticism of the grading system in general use among public school teachers in marking the work of their pupils and the declaration that "marks" in school mean little featured an address before the annual Dauphin County Teachers' Institute by Dr. Wilbur L. Beauchamp of the University of Chicago.

A definite numerical grade, he said, is meaningless so far as actual education is concerned. In it's stead he urged teachers to use their regular classes as periods solely for education, and to give grades only for examinations and tests. Under this plan, he pointed out, the student's efforts are concentrated on understanding thought processes rather than striving for the numerical grade.

"How To Think"

The aim of the teacher, Doctor Beauchamp said, should be "to show pupils how to think." He added:

"We must explain to the children the steps through which they must pass to follow the best process of thinking. When they err, it is our place to tell them where they went wrong."

Doctor Beauchamp declared that he cared little how much subject matter his pupils carried away with them from the classroom. He expressed himself as satisfied if the pupil "learns to reason from cause to effect—can generalize, compare and analyze."

Such thought processes, he said, can be put to practical use in the world outside the classroom. In this connection, he said:

"Teaching starts where a child can't do something. Your pupils are preparing to meet the demands you set up. Set up a body of ideas as a goal in teaching the child. A pupil either gets an idea or he doesn't get it. He can't get 50 or 75 per cent of it."

In addition to caring for her father and mother who have been ill, doing all the baking for the family, her own washing and housework and conducting a beauty shop, Mrs. Mildred Cross, of North Lee avenue, has established quite a record for canning during the past month or so.

Mrs. Cross has just completed canning 400 jars of fruit and vegetables and 150 half pint glasses of jelly, and she is still canning.

"I had at first meant to can just 100 jars, but with so much wonderful fruit this year, I just couldn't stop. It is hard to tell how much will be on the shelves for the winter before I get through."

National Parks Report Large Increases In Tourist Travel

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The business slump did not affect travel last summer in the government playgrounds.

As a matter of fact, said Horace Albright, director of national parks, in a report to Secretary Wilbur, 3,152,845 persons went to the parks compared to 2,774,561 last year, a gain of 14 per cent.

Travel to national monuments fell off about 80,000. The park director attributed this to the fact that most of the monuments are in the southwest, where an unusually hot summer and resultant bad roads made monuments less inviting.

Yosemite led the parks in visitors with 461,855 persons viewing and enjoying its peaks and waterfalls. Platt National park was second with 325,000. Albright said that a great part of this travel originated in the immediate locality.

A total of 293,562 persons visited Mt. Rainier, 263,663 went to the Rocky Mountain park in Colorado, 221,248 to Yellowstone, 156,964 to the Grand Canyon, and 154,000 were estimated to have visited the newest playground of the system, the Great Smoky park in North Carolina and Tennessee.

Repeating last year's achievement, the petrified Forest National monument in Arizona led in the number of visitors to monuments with a total of 93,898. Muir Woods National monument was second wtih 73,717.

Police Dogs Are Guards In Prison

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 15.—The police-dog patrol squad at the new Eastern penitentiary has been augmented with the arrival of three more police-trained dogs from Switzerland.

Use of dogs for patrol duty in the prison has been carried on for nearly a year and has met with such success that it was decided to enlarge the force. Three dogs have been on during the past year, carrying out the duties of human guards.

The use of police dogs is looked upon as having a good psychological effect on prisoners, Warden Herbert Smith believes.

New patrol dogs will be given a training consuming eight weeks beginning this month.

Montgomery County Turns In Two Freaks Of Natures—Second Crop Of Strawberries

(International News Service)

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Oct. 15—Montgomery county recorded something a little unusual when a second crop of strawberries was produced on a farm near here, but that event was shunted from the picture when Lena Robinson, Conshohocken found a pear growing on a cherry tree in her garden.

The tree is 30 years old and earlier in the season produced its customary yield of pie cherries. A fully-developed pear now hangs from one of the limbs.

How long ago was it that Canute had a similar flash of sweeping back the sea with a broom?
